PEACE SOUGHT IN ANTHRACITE COAL SECTIONS

Operators and Miners
Gather Around Parley
Table in East

NO ASSURANCE FELT
Spirit of Uncertainty
Hangs Over Meeting
In Philadelphia

Washington, August 17.—An agreement between anthracite operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers will be effected before tonight, observers of the Department of Labor, attending the Philadelphia conference today informed Secretary of Labor Davis.

"Unless there is a hitch in the negotiations, and this is not expected, the hard coal miners will be back at work Monday," said an official of the labor department.

Philadelphia, August 17.—Anthracite operators and miners will gather about a peace table here this afternoon with the hope of bringing to an end the twenty weeks' strike that has already cost the hard coal strikers almost $100,000,000 loss in wages and helped bring the nation to the brink of coal famine.

As mine owners and union representatives sit down to talk things over, they start in a state of uncertainty with absolutely no assurance as to the outcome.

The operators, who asked for the conference at the bidding of President Harding frankly admit that they began negotiations with no program worked out. While it is up to them to lay their cards on the table and show on what terms they desire peace, their policy on the first day of the meeting is very much up in the air and not at all certain today's meeting very much on the order of the first round of a battle—feeling out session. When the "smoking out" task is over the operators expect to speedily whip into shape their complete and final bid for anthracite peace.

The uncertainty in the camp of the mine owners is due to three things, first the effect of the bituminous settlement on the anthracite situation; second, pronounced and emphatic statements of the union leaders that arbitration will not be accepted in any form; third, the fear that Washington might not permit the companies to continue their fight because of the country's cry for anthracite coal.

In the background however are certain and positive signs that the anthracite deadlock will be broken and that a peace program will be worked out by the end of the present week. On all sides it is admitted that the bituminous settlement is bound to break down the barriers that have been set up against peace in the anthracite region. It is not necessary to read between the lines to discover that President Harding's reference to anthracite operators as "good sports" is regarded by the company heads with a bit of uncertainty. The fear of government seizure of the mines is ever present and the mines will be lost sight of in the present parley.

Whether it was a Lewis move, or a well directed move on the part of the miners policy committee, the fact is that an effort was made to carry out a program in the anthracite field almost exactly like that which brought peace in the bituminous fields. Independent operators in the hard coal regions were brought together for the purpose of considering a peace pact. This body in the anthracite district was like the present mine parley that Lewis got together in the soft coal districts to sign a peace pact that is meant to force the big operators into settlement. Had this independent force in the anthracite field bolted the main organization, the union would have signed a pact and used this as a lever to force peace on their own demands. The independent refused to bolt and when the operators sat down today to face the leaders of the union it was with an organization of 100 per cent standard pact.

Anthracite operators met in New York Monday and Tuesday. They went over every phase of the anthracite situation, their spokesmen say, but they were unable to work out a definite plan of settlement for presentation at the opening of the parley today.

Washington, August 17.—The cost of the railroad strike in incalculable, but staggering.

This was the opinion today of government officials who sought some comprehensive idea of how much the strike is costing the country.

The striking railway shippers have lost 40 working days since laying down their tools July 1.

Approximately 400,000 men are out, according to union officials, and on a basis of an eight hour day they have lost 128 million working hours. At 70 cents an hour this would have netted them $89,600,000.

What the strike is costing railroads through impaired equipment, loss of bosses, strike guards, can only be a matter of conjecture.

What the strike is costing shippers, particularly shippers of perishables of fruit and vegetables, also is problematical. All authorities are agreed however, that it is staggering.

CHARTER IS TAKEN AWAY FROM FIRM UNDER STATE LAW

Pittsburg Tin Plate and Steel Corporation Can
Not Do Business

Columbus, Aug. 17.—Authority to do business in Ohio has been taken away from the Pittsburg Tin Plate and Steel Corporation, Inc., in Delaware, with plant at Marietta, for alleged failure to pay franchise fee or tax within ninety days time limit set by law. Secretary of State Smith announced cancellation of the company's Ohio charter, following offers from State Finance Director Davis.

Ohio corporations according to statutes are given ninety days within which to pay taxes. Failure to pay within the time limit is then punishable by cancellation of the charter.

It is understood that State Finance Director Davis' action was hastened through demands of a portion of the stockholders of the company, who were insisting on the cancellation proceedings.

"The law says certificates to do business in Ohio shall be cancelled if fees are not paid within ninety days after they are due and I was afraid some of the stockholders of this company might demand me if I didn't order the cancellation," State Finance Director Davis said.

P. R. R. ASKS TO LEASE MORE RAIL PROPERTY

Washington, Aug. 17.—In order to further unify its system the Pennsylvania Railroad Company today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to lease for a period of 999 years the railroad and property of the following roads:

Toledo, Columbus and Ohio railroad; Cleveland, Akron and Cincinnati; Cincinnati, Lebanon and Northern; Pittsburgh, Ohio Valley, and Cincinnati; Englewood Connecting railroad; South Chicago and Southern; Wheeling Terminal Railroad; Ohio Connecting railroad; Indianapolis and Frankfort and the Louisville Bridge and Terminal Co., railway.

Mrs. A. P. Crawford, seventy-one years old, mother of five children and grandmother of many more, is taking a Summer course at Columbia University, New York City. Mrs. Crawford is the widow of a Methodist minister, and, in addition to a "modern science course, is studying philosophy, literature and the conservative, radical and reactionary tendencies of present-day morals. Optimistic about the present generation and modernized civilization, Mrs. Crawford believes the girl of today studies differently than her mother did—but knows more.

WANTS SHARE OF $40,000,000 REAM ESTATE

Mrs. Frank M. Downer, Jr., formerly Miss Lenora Ream, beautiful niece of the late Norman B. Ream, has entered suit in Chicago for a $100,000 share of his $40,000,000 estate. When his younger brother, John, found himself in financial difficulties Norman Ream took the two younger boys and Lenora to raise. She was placed in care of Mrs. Heddlie, in Osceola. When she was nineteen she lost a hand in an accident on the C. B. and Q. Railroad, in which Ream was one of the principal stockholders. That suit was settled for $2,500 with the understanding, she alleges, that Ream would take care of her for the rest of her life and provide for her in his will. Ream died two years after her marriage to Downer, and the provisions of the will were said to have been so disappointing that Downer left her.

Settlement of Rail Strike Hangs on Joint Meeting

Important Developments expected To Come Out of Conference Between Executives and Leaders of Big Four Brotherhoods.

New York, Aug. 17.—Leaders of the Big Four railroad brotherhoods and a committee representing the Association of Railway Executives, were to meet here this morning in what is expected to be the most important conference held since the beginning of the railway shippers' strike.

Definite progress towards a settlement of the strike or a final decision to fight the strike through to the finish probably will be the result of the meeting.

All of the brotherhood chiefs were on hand early today, but they would make no comment beyond expressing the hope that their parley with the executives would result in a way being found to call off the shippers' strike. The railway executives likewise would not discuss the conference.

"You know as much about it as I do," was the answer of Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers when asked what he expected in the way of results. He made it clear by his attitude, however, that he believed the conference would be productive of important developments.

AGED MOTHER AND SON RE UNITED FOLLOWING FIFTY EIGHT YEARS' SEPARATION FROM FAMILY

Columbus, O., Aug. 17.—Fifty-eight years of prayer fulfilled a mother's longing for her son, when Mrs. Mary Margaret Roper, 83 years old, clasped to her bosom her eldest son, Joseph Roper, 62 years old, as she walked through the gates of the Union Station last night.

The pain in the mother's heart was still as she took into her arms the son, now grown old and gray, whom she had not seen since he was a lad of four years.

Mrs. Roper had come all the way from Little Blue, Mo., where for the last 12 years she had been an inmate of a home for the aged, to find "Jole."

It was back in 1865 that the Ropers lived in Springfield, Ohio. One day, becoming aggrieved, the husband took the two boys, Joseph, 4 years old, and Charles 1 year old, and left her.

Years of searching failed to reveal their whereabouts, and after hope of ever again seeing her children had grown dim, she inserted an advertisement in the May number of the National G. A. R. Magazine. It was seen by Joseph Roper. Correspondence between the two ensued and the reunion followed.

The other son, Charles, a travelling man, is hurrying home, on the speediest trains, to "get in on the mother lovin'" denied to him in his youth.

After leaving Springfield Mrs. Roper lived in London, Ohio, going from there to Lee's Summit, Mo., and in 1912 entered the Jackson Home for the aged in Little Blue. She had saved enough money to live comfortably, and with what was left she bought her ticket to Columbus.

Mr. Roper died years ago in Cleveland.

Mrs. Roper, it is said, has about

LEGAL CONTROL OF COAL PRICE LOOMS NEARER

Disregard of Scale By Producing Operators May Cause Action

PLAN PROVES FAILURE

Fuel Selling From $6.50 to $13.50 as Against $3.50 Agreement

Washington, Aug. 17.—Legal control of the price and distribution of coal—but especially the price—loomed appreciably nearer today as a result of a general disregard for the "fair price" scale by producing operators.

The "voluntary fair price" plan has broken down under the impact of a panicky market, and coal today is selling for prices that range all the way from $6.50 a ton to $13.50, as against the $3.50 agreement established by Secretary Hoover and as against the price of $2.10 when the coal strike began on April 1.

President Harding may make the subject of coal regulations the subject of a special message to Congress, for regardless of the settlement reached at Cleveland, it was generally admitted today that the country will go through the winter on short rations.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will transmit his ideas on the subject to Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, in a few days. Borah is planning to further legislation for emergency enactments.

Senator Calder, Republican of New York, also is planning legislation. Calder believes a system of price should be established in order to make the price of a ton of coal conform to the cost of production.

Federal regulation of the coal industry similar to the railroad regulation will not be attempted at this session of congress, it is generally conceded today.

Even those who are most energetic in urging regulation believe it should not be attempted in view of the legislative program.

SIMPLICITY MARKS FUNERAL OF LORD NORTHCLIFFE IS WORD

London, Aug. 17.—Simplicity and an entire departure from the pomp of earthly power today marked the funeral services of Lord Northcliffe, famous British publisher, in Westminster Abbey.

The burial later in St. Marylebone cemetery was equally simple. The chief note was one of reverence.

Homage to the memory of the great publisher was paid by persons in every walk of life, from Ambassadors and high officers of state and army down to workers in the ranks of labor.

At the door of the cathedral the cortege was met by the sub-dean, Canon Carnegie, robed in white and purple.

The coffin was borne up the aisle, the scene combining all the elements of funeral grandeur. A vested choir accompanied the procession, the voices rising softly through the mighty space of the edifice.

From the lofty stained glass windows flowed a dim light, that fell upon the multitude of the mourners. Some knelt in prayer, some sobbed in the grief.

The choir chanted the opening sentence of the burial service of the Episcopal Church as the body was placed upon the catafalque before the altar. Nearby were 1,500 employees of the Northcliffe press and 200 pensioned former employees. Throughout the abbey were representatives of the royal family, peers, commoners and diplomats.

There were many army, navy and air officers present in uniform. Thousands of commoners crowded every nook and corner. The only restriction to entrance was the capacity of the edifice.

The muffled bells tolled softly as the procession left for the cemetery, passing through streets that were filled with women and bare headed men. The service at the cemetery was very brief.

The public funeral for Lord Northcliffe was the direct result of a request to the Harmsworth family by the dean of Westminster Abbey.

Cincinnati, August 17.—Scobee Hardman, charged with the murder of Leon Renaker, "Turkey king of America" was held for the grand jury without bond late Wednesday at Winchester, Ky., following a preliminary hearing before Police Judge J. S. Scrivenor. The sensation of the day was the arrest of Reese Fox, Hardman's reputed accomplice, which resulted from the testimony of Arthur Smith, ferryman at Booneboro, to the effect that Fox was with him in a small roadster early the following morning. Fox broke down and wept when he was led away and lodged in the Clark County jail on a charge of murder.

The little town of Winchester was athrob with excitement over the trial and the lawn about the tiny courthouse was crowded with thousands of persons who came to witness the trial. Some of those present were from point 30 and 40 miles away, driving in automobiles, riding in barges or jogging along on horseback in order to be "in" on the hearing of the most sensational murder case ever known in the county.

The prosecution bent its energies to proving that Hardman and Mrs. Nancy C. Renaker, widow of the slain man, had been unduly intimate in their relations. The defense offered no testimony whatever. Hardman remained cool and defiant through the hearing and expressed no emotion when the judge ordered him held without bail.

PRESIDENT WILL DELAY MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

MUSSOLINI HEAD OF THE FASCISTI

Here is a hitherto unpublished photograph of one of the world's most remarkable political personalities—Signor Mussolini, leader of the Italian Fascisti. A fiery and ardent patriot, after an early career as a Socialist leader, he became the leader of the extremists in the other camp. Winner of a hundred duels, he recently called on the Fascisti to disarm after it had taken armed control of the nation and routed the Communists and socialists, with great loss of life and property. It is expected he will be appointed to an important post in the Italian Cabinet.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Harding decided this forenoon not to appear before congress today with his message on the industrial situation.

The president telephoned Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana at 10:10 o'clock that he would not go to the capital today, and that if the New York peace conference today is successful he may not go at all.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Harding was undecided this morning whether he would go to congress during the day and make a full report on the critical industrial situation.

The presidential message, presenting a gloomy picture of existing conditions in both rail and coal industries, is virtually ready for delivery. Much of it has been written. The coal tension, however, has been relieved by the Cleveland agreement and an undisguised feeling of optimism pervades administration circles that today's joint rail conference in New York will bring a break in the deadlock between executives and strikers.

In this situation Mr. Harding feels it would perhaps be advisable to await the outcome of the New York rail parley and the Philadelphia anthracite conference before proceeding to congress. Some members of Congress feel the same way. Others among the president's advisers, notably members of his cabinet, believe the country is entitled to the "whole story" anyway and that Mr. Harding should proceed with his original plan of telling it today.

At the White House this morning it was said that whether or not the president would go would be determined during the forenoon, probably on thirty minutes notice.

The White House, the capital and all official Washington looked hopefully toward New York today for settlement of the rail strike.

It is known that the union leaders took with them to New York a plan of settlement they will propose to the executives and which they are confident will be made the basis for an agreement.

While details of this plan were carefully guarded, it is understood to embrace the "three way" seniority proposal, so constructed as to take care of all the striking workers without loss of their seniority rights, and at the same time affords the railroads a means of "saving their faces" with their men and the public.

The railroads will have enough work on hand, as a result of the six weeks' tieup, to give employment to both old and new men without much bickering, according to officials cognizant of the condition of equipment.

ADVANCE STARTED AGAINST DUNDALK BY FREE STATERS

Big Battle Threatens In Northern End of County
Louth

Belfast, August 17.—Dubdalk, which was captured by irregulars Monday morning, was retaken by free state troops today. Dundalk is on Dundalk bay, in county Louth, and controls Belfast-Dublin rail communication.

Dublin, August 17.—Supported by heavy artillery, a free state army today is advancing upon Dundalk. If the irregulars make a stand a big battle is threatened in the northern end of County Louth.

An official communication reports that the free state troops continued win victories in the west, and south-west. Mallow, Fermoy and Mitchells-town have been captured from the irregulars. It had been expected that the rebels would make a stand at these places but they retired before the steady advance of the free staters Eamonn De Valera commander in chief of the irregulars was seen at Fermoy.

Cost of Walkout Believed To Reach Staggering Sum

Strikers Lose $89,600,000 In Wages While Loss to Railroads in Impaired Equipment, and to Shippers, Said to Be Enormous.

Washington, August 17.—The cost of the railroad strike in incalculable, but staggering.

This was the opinion today of government officials who sought some comprehensive idea of how much the strike is costing the country.

The striking railway shippers have lost 40 working days since laying down their tools July 1.

Approximately 400,000 men are out, according to union officials, and on a basis of an eight hour day they have lost 128 million working hours. At 70 cents an hour this would have netted them $89,600,000.

CRITICISM AIMED AT KATO MINISTRY NOW DYING AWAY

Tokio, Aug. 17.—Nationwide criticism that hailed the coming of the Kato Ministry has died away except in the camp of the Kenseikai, or opposition party, all in the space of a few weeks. Admiral Baron Kato is a success as Premier, and his ministers make the Cabinet a success at least temporarily.

A liberal Cabinet composed of bureaucrats. That sounds funny for Japan, but nevertheless that is what the Kato administration is turning out to be. While the Cabinet does not delay development of party government it can in no way be said to be autocratic in policies, so far accomplished or announced, despite the fact that most of its members come from the conservative, bureaucratic House of Peers.

Siberian Withdrawal Favored
The Siberian trick did it, at least so far as the press of the country is concerned. It must be said in all fairness to Japan that, armed occupation of Siberia was a child of the imperialistic military party, the Choshu clan, and that it was never popular with the newspapers nor with the mass of the people. Nevertheless former Premier Hara was so closely allied with Prince Yamagata and his clique that it became a Selyukai policy. In the Takahashi Cabinet a feud developed between the Foreign Office—Count Uchida favored withdrawal—and the War Office, with the latter winning out.

It appears that when Admiral Kato accepted the Premiership from the Elder Statesmen he stipulated that his promise given at Washington and reiterated here upon his return must be fulfilled. At any rate, such was one of the first decisions of his ministry. Withdrawal from Saghalien province followed, as also did an order to the delegates at Peking to assess Shantung holdings as low as possible and give China the minimum price; orders for the fulfillment of the naval reductions and the working out of a plan for army reduction. These things—with a number of others of little more than local interest—have learned for the Kato Cabinet the name of being liberal and progressive, while the newspapers and the leaders of national thought, already begin to expect it to live a long life, in which many things will be accomplished.

Seek Saghalien Settlement
Closely linked with the Siberian question has been that of Saghalien. At the time of the Nikolaievsk massacre Japan sent a brigade to the province and to the northern or Russian half of Saghalien island to hold that territory until indemnities for the loss of the 700 Japanese lives should be paid. Troops in the province proper, where Nikolaievsk is located are to be withdrawn by the end of September, but the island is still held pending settlement with a competent Russian government.

It is rumored that Japan is attempting, through informal channels, to settle the Nikolaievsk incident with the Soviet, asking a clear title to the island as reparation for the massacre. Under the present circumstances such a settlement would be profitable to Russia, too, for something of the sort will be the only way in which she will be accepted in good faith by Tokio.

Will Make Kato Solid
Should this be accomplished it will make Kato Cabinet solid with business interests in Japan, which would increase its popularity to a point where political opposition would mean little. The Cabinet now is in a peculiar situation, as, although it has the avowed backing of the Selyukai, it is an open secret that as soon as the party feels strong enough after the Takahashi blunder it will oust Admiral Kato and name a new party Ministry. The record of this stop-gap Ministry so far, coupled with indications for the future, give rise to the belief that the Cabinet is soon to be so deeply imbedded that popular opinion will not permit the Selyukai to step in whenever it chooses to do so.

PHIL DOUGLAS TO FIGHT DECISION

New York, August 17.—Phil Douglas, blacklist pitcher of the New York Giants, is on his way east to his home in this city, prepared to institute a fight to retain his standing in organized baseball, despite the fact he is said to have admitted he conspired to cause the Giants to loose the pennant. Upon his arrival here, Douglas plans to produce a letter which he says will prove that he was approached first, on the proposition that he deserted his team at a critical stage of the race.

Another player on a national league team is involved in the scandal but baseball officials are withholding his name because they say he is entirely innocent of wrong doings.

New York, August 17.—Prostrated by the shock of her husband's downfall, Mrs. Louise Douglas, wife of "Shufflin" Phil Douglas, the pitcher suspended from organized baseball, was confined to her bed in her home here today.

"Phil certainly must have been on a spree to have gotten himself into such a terrible fix," she said. "I cannot understand it at all." When the White Sox scandal broke three years ago he was most bitter in denouncing the guilty players.

He was married March 18, 1868 to Miss Angeline Busbey, a member of the Busbey newspaper family, who survive with two children, Mrs. Gienna Henry of South Vienna, and Harry E. Rice, of this city. He was for a number of years connected with the Rhinehart and Ballard Co., of Springfield, as a traveling mechanical expert. ## CRITICISM AIMED AT KATO MINISTRY NOW DYING AWAY

Tokio, Aug. 17.—Nationwide criticism that hailed the coming of the Kato Ministry has died away except in the camp of the Kenseikai, or opposition party, all in the space of a few weeks. Admiral Baron Kato is a success as Premier, and his ministers make the Cabinet a success at least temporarily.

A liberal Cabinet composed of bureaucrats. That sounds funny for Japan, but nevertheless that is what the Kato administration is turning out to be. While the Cabinet does not delay development of party government it can in no way be said to be autocratic in policies, so far accomplished or announced, despite the fact that most of its members come from the conservative, bureaucratic House of Peers.

Siberian Withdrawal Favored
The Siberian trick did it, at least so far as the press of the country is concerned. It must be said in all fairness to Japan that, armed occupation of Siberia was a child of the imperialistic military party, the Choshu clan, and that it was never popular with the newspapers nor with the mass of the people. Nevertheless former Premier Hara was so closely allied with Prince Yamagata and his clique that it became a Selyukai policy. In the Takahashi Cabinet a feud developed between the Foreign Office—Count Uchida favored withdrawal—and the War Office, with the latter winning out.

It appears that when Admiral Kato accepted the Premiership from the Elder Statesmen he stipulated that his promise given at Washington and reiterated here upon his return must be fulfilled. At any rate, such was one of the first decisions of his ministry. Withdrawal from Saghalien province followed, as also did an order to the delegates at Peking to assess Shantung holdings as low as possible and give China the minimum price; orders for the fulfillment of the naval reductions and the working out of a plan for army reduction. These things—plus a number of others of little more than local interest—have learned for the Kato Cabinet the name of being liberal and progressive, while the newspapers and the leaders of national thought, already begin to expect it to live a long life, in which many things will be accomplished.

Seek Saghalien Settlement
Closely linked with the Siberian question has been that of Saghalien. At the time of the Nikolaievsk massacre Japan sent a brigade to the province and to the northern or Russian half of Saghalien Island to hold that territory until indemnities for the loss of the 700 Japanese lives should be paid. Troops in the province proper, where Nikolaievsk is located, are to be withdrawn by the end of September, but the island is still held pending settlement with a competent Russian government.

It is rumored that Japan is attempting, through informal channels, to settle the Nikolaievsk incident with the Soviet, asking a clear title to the island as reparation for the massacre. Under the present circumstances such a settlement would be profitable to Russia, too, for something of the sort will be the only way in which she will be accepted in good faith by the world.

Will Make Kato Solid
Should this be accomplished it will make Kato Cabinet solid with business interests in Japan, which would increase its popularity to a point where political opposition would mean little. The Cabinet now is in a peculiar situation, as, although it has the avowed backing of the Selyukai, it is an open secret that as soon as the party feels strong enough after the Takahashi blunder it will party Ministry. The record of this stop-gap Ministry so far, coupled with indications for the future, give rise to the belief that the Cabinet is soon to be so deeply imbedded that popular opinion will not permit the Selyukai to step in whenever it chooses to do so.

PHIL DOUGLAS TO FIGHT DECISION

New York, August 17.—Phil Douglas, blacklist pitcher of the New York Giants, is on his way east to his home in this city, prepared to institute a fight to retain his standing in organized baseball, despite the fact he is said to have admitted he conspired to cause the Giants to lose the pennant. Upon his arrival here, Douglas plans to produce a letter which he says will prove that he was approached first, on the proposition that he deserted his team at a critical stage of the race.

Another player on a national league team is involved in the scandal but baseball officials are withholding his name because they say he is entirely innocent of wrong doings.

New York, August 17.—Prostrated by the shock of her husband's downfall, Mrs. Louise Douglas, wife of "Shuffle" Phil Douglas, the pitcher suspended from organized baseball, was confined to her bed in her home here today.

"Phil certainly must have been on a spree to have gotten himself into such a terrible fix," she said. "I cannot understand it all." When the White Sox scandal broke three years ago he was most bitter in denouncing the guilty players.

P-unksutawney, Pa., August 17.—A tragedy unparalleled in the history of Jefferson County, occurred at Florence, near here, early today when Francisco Costanza, 45, after a futile attempt to kill his wife Frances, 35, and their six children by dynamiting the family home as they slept, shot killed his wife while the terror-stricken children stood about and screamed for mercy. ## OPENING OF MINES WILL HAVE LITTLE EFFECT IN XENIA

That the return of coal miners to their work Tuesday in seven mining states, will not affect the local coal situation, is the statement of Xenia coal dealers Thursday.

The fact that practically all locally consumed coal is produced in West Virginia's non-union mining fields, and that, delivery to the yards here is based upon settlement of the railroad strike and not influenced by the strike of the miners, is the statement of these dealers, who find no consolation in the return of miners to their work.

Locomotives out of working order because of the strike of the shop-crafts workmen are preventing the movement of cars to and from the mining regions, say the dealers, and while the mines are working and able to supply the coal, the transportation tie-up is preventing delivery here, and is the real reason that Xenia dealers are now worrying.

One local dealer has been advised that although the mines from which he purchased coal are working full time, and with a full force of employees, that 800 loaded cars standing on the mine siding, cannot be moved because of the rail strike, and that deliveries therefore cannot be made. The mine operators say there is no relief for the situation in sight unless the rail strike is ended, and that priority is so heavy that delivery will still be tied up for some time.

Because of the rail tie-up mines are far behind in their deliveries, with priority orders to be given first attention. Six million tons of coal for the lakes must also be taken care of at the rate of 500 cars a day, as soon as rail transportation is opened. One local dealer believes that because of this condition that "hand to mouth conditions" will prevail in the local coal business this winter, as dealers will be unable to obtain the fuel in quantities before the coming of winter.

Another dealer with coal ordered and shipped has been waiting 16 days for the shipment which general requires five to six days, the coal being delayed by the inability to get engines owing to the shopcrafts strike. This dealer believes also that it will be "everyone for himself" when the transportation problem is untangled and shipments begin to arrive. Through purchases on guaranteed price we will be able to furnish coal at $8.50 a ton, without guarantee the time of delivery, while other dealers are taking orders without guaranteeing either price or delivery.

FRENCH DELEGATE ORDERED TO LEAVE

Washington, Aug. 17.—The French government has instructed M. Jean Parmentier, head of the French delegation to America to return to France immediately. It was learned here today.

It is understood the summons came from President Poincare and is a result of the deadlock between Great Britain and France over financial matters involved in reparations and war loans.

Parmentier informed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today he would sail for France next Wednesday from New York on the liner Paris. He said he expected to return to the United States in the fall after giving officials in Paris a full report on the debt funding negotiations to date.

FIGHTERS CONTINUE THEIR TRAINING

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 17.—Reports from Indianapolis that Governor McCray would refuse to permit the Dempsey-Brennan 10 round bout here on Labor day, have caused no holiday in the camps of the fighters.

Jack Dempsey was early astir this morning for a brisk workout along the lake beach, ogging over the loose sand with Joe Benamin, the Pacific coast lightweight, and Harry Lavadas, his trainer. Jack is more concerned over his road work than present than he is over boxing. Rough muscle pulling work is what he needs, more than boxing.

Bill Brennan was expected back in his training camp today after a trip down state to appear at an American Legion exhibition. He looks to be in splendid condition.

MCDONALD LEADS YOUNG SIX VOTES

Columbus, Aug. 17.—Official primary returns from 87 counties, on file today now with Secretary Smith shows that B. F. McDonald, Newark, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general is leading Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general by six votes, state election officials declared this is the closest race in the annals of primary contests.

The official vote for the $7 county give McDonald a total of 39,284; with 39,278 for Young.

BATTLE IMPENDS OVER BONUS MEASURE

Washington, Aug. 17.—With the passage of the pending tariff bill but forty-eight hours away, senators began laying plans today for the impending battle over the soldiers' bonus bill, which by a special order is next on the senate's legislative program.

Opponents of the ex-service men's compensation legislation, realizing they probably would be unable to defeat it outright, were planning dilatory tactics in an effort to again hold it up. A suggestion was being put forth that, after the long, trying fight over the tariff the senate should take a recess for at least several days so as to give senators a chance to rest up and acquire a coat of vacation tan before engaging in another legislative struggle.

RETAINING WALL OF STEEL BRIDGE AT NIAGARA RAZED

Span Narrowly Escapes Destruction By Big Blast.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—The west retaining wall of the big steel bridge over which the International Railway Company operates its high speed line to Niagara Falls was dynamited early today. Only the fact that the force of the explosion took a downward, instead of an upward course, saved the span from destruction.

The wall was damaged, the bridge shaken, and the ties and rails raised from three to six inches. The police have no clue to the perpetrators of the outrage. Patrolman Henry Frommert, the first man to reach the bridge, halted the oncoming cars. The attempt to blow up the span was not the only sign of violence to the street car strike at the falls today. The first car that reached 22nd Street was halted by a chain around the rail. The motorman discovered the obstacle in time to prevent a derailment.

MURDERS WIFE AND THEN SHOTS SELF

P-unxsutawney, Pa., August 17.—A tragedy unparalleled in the history of Jefferson County, occurred at Florence, near here, early today when Francisco Costanza, 45, after a futile attempt to kill his wife Frances, 35, and their six children by dynamiting the family home as they slept, shot killed his wife while the terror-stricken children stood about and screamed for mercy. The husband then shot and killed himself.

"No inquest is necessary, its a case of just plain murder and suicide," said Coroner N. C. Mills, at noon.

The house was wrecked by the dynamite. The husband was jealous.

Mrs. Nettie Harritt, of Columbus, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Beal, and other relatives in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of Jamestown, have moved to their new home in West Liberty, Ohio. Mr. Collins, who was former superintendent of the Ross township schools, has accepted a similar position at West Liberty.

Mrs. S. Milton McKay and two children, Eleanor and Margaret, returned home Wednesday evening from Lakeside where they spent three weeks at the LeSourd Cottage.

Dr. A. W. Jamieson, of South King Street, underwent an operation at the McClellan hospital Tuesday. He is reported to be doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McClellan, who bought the property of Mrs. C. L. Spencer on West Third Street that had been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Curlett and family are moving to their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Curlett moved Tuesday to the O'Connell property at the corner of Third and West Streets.

Miss Marion Grover, of South Dakota, came to this city Thursday from Dayton where she has been visiting relatives, and will spend several days as the guest of her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Grube, of West Second Street.

MANY MOHAMMEDANS KILLED IN BIG BATTLE

WIFE SLAYER WILL SPEND LIFE IN JAIL

Columbus, Aug. 17.—Adjudget insane by examining physicians Edward Moffett, Akron wife slayer, had his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment in the penitentiary by Governor Davis at noon today.

Decision of the physicians as to Moffett's insanity was arrived at after careful survey of the prisoners condition during the past three months, while he was confined at the Lima state hospital.

Moffett was scheduled to be electrocuted August 19. Governor Davis action in Moffett's case is said to be the first commutation of sentence he has granted.

OPENING OF MINES WILL HAVE LITTLE EFFECT IN XENIA

That the return of coal miners to their work Tuesday in seven mining states, will not affect the local coal situation, is the statement of Xenia coal dealers Thursday.

The fact that practically all locally consumed coal is produced in West Virginia's non-union mining fields, and that, delivery to the yards here is based upon settlement of the railroad strike and not influenced by the strike of the miners, is the statement of these dealers, who find no consolation in the return of miners to their work.

Locomotives out of working order because of the strike of the shop-crafts workmen are preventing the movement of cars to and from the mining regions, say the dealers, and while the mines are working and able to supply the coal, the transportation tie-up is preventing delivery here, and is the real reason that Xenia dealers are now worrying.

One local dealer has been advised that although the mines from which he purchased coal are working full time, and with a full force of employees, that 800 loaded cars standing on the mine siding, cannot be moved because of the rail strike, and that deliveries therefore cannot be made. The mine operators say there is no relief for the situation in sight unless the rail strike is ended, and that priority are so heavy that delivery will still be tied up for some time.

Because of the rail tie-up mines are far behind in their deliveries, with priority orders to be given first attention. Six million tons of coal for the lakes must also be taken care of at the rate of 500 cars a day, as soon as rail transportation is opened. One local dealer believes that because of this condition that "hand to mouth conditions" will prevail in the local coal business this winter, as dealers will be unable to obtain the fuel in quantities before the coming of winter.

Another dealer with coal ordered and shipped has been waiting 16 days for the shipment which general requires five to six days, the coal being delayed by the inability to get engines owing to the shop-crafts strike. This dealer believes also that it will be "everyone for himself" when the transportation problem is untangled and shipments begin to arrive. Through purchases on guaranteed price we will be able to furnish coal at $8.50 a ton, without guarantee the time of delivery, while other dealers are taking orders without guaranteeing either price or delivery.

FRENCH DELEGATE ORDERED TO LEAVE

Washington, Aug. 17.—The French government has instructed M. Jean Parmentier, head of the French delegation to America to return to France immediately. It was learned here today.

It is understood the summons came from President Poincare and is a result of the deadlock between Great Britain and France over financial matters involved in reparations and war loans.

Parmentier informed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today he would sail for France next Wednesday from New York on the liner Paris. He said he expected to return to the United States in the fall after giving officials in Paris a full report on the debt funding negotiations to date.

FIGHTERS CONTINUE THEIR TRAINING

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 17.—Reports from Indianapolis that Governor McCray would refuse to permit the Dempsey-Brennan 10 round bout here on Labor day, have caused no holiday in the camps of the fighters.

Jack Dempsey was early astir this morning for a brisk workout along the lake beach, ogling over the loose sand with Joe Benjamin, the Pacific coast lightweight, and Harr Lavadas, his trainer. Jack is more concerned over his road work at present than he is over boxing. Rough muscle pulling work is what he needs, more than boxing.

Bill Brennan was expected back in his training camp today after a trip down state to appear at an American Legion exhibition. He looks to be in splendid condition.

MCDONALD LEADS YOUNG SIX VOTES

Columbus, Aug. 17.—Official primary returns from 87 counties, on file today now with Secretary Smith shows that B. F. McDonald, Newark, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general is leading Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general by six votes, state election officials declared this is the closest race in the annals of primary contests.

The official vote for the 87 counties give McDonald a total of 39,284; with 39,278 for Young.

The unofficial count from Mahoning County, however, remaining county to be heard from, gives Young a majority of 247 over McDonald in that particular district, indicating that Young will be 241 votes in the lead in final count, if the officials returns from Mahoning County show no change in the unofficial totals.

BATTLE IMPENDS OVER BONUS MEASURE

Washington, Aug. 17.—With the passage of the pending tariff bill but forty-eight hours away, senators began laying plans today for the impending battle over the soldiers' bonus bill, which by a special order is next on the senate's legislative program.

Opponents of the ex-service men's compensation legislation, realizing they probably would be unable to defeat it outright, were planning dilatory tactics in an effort to again hold it up. A suggestion was being put forth that after the long, trying fight over the tariff the senate should take a recess for at least several days so as to give senators a chance to rest up and acquire a coat of vacation tan before engaging in another legislative struggle.

RETAINING WALL OF STEEL BRIDGE AT NIAGARA RAZED

Span Narrowly Escapes Destruction By Big Blast.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—The west retaining wall of the big steel bridge over which the International Railway Company operates its high speed line to Niagara Falls was dynamited early today. Only the fact that the force of the explosion took a downward, instead of an upward course, saved the span from destruction.

The wall was damaged, the bridge shaken, and the ties and rails raised from three to six inches. The police have no clue to the perpetrators of the outrage. Patrolman Henry Frommert, the first man to reach the bridge, halted the oncoming cars. The attempt to blow up the span was not the only sign of violence in the street car strike at the falls today. The first car that reached 22nd Street was halted by a chain around the rail. The motorman discovered the obstruction in time to prevent a derailment.

LEAVES HOSPITAL HERE FOR HOME

Thomas Tallifero, 16, who has been confined to the Espey Hospital for the past several weeks, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries, received when he with two companions were struck by a Pennsylvania train at the Jasper crossing, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home in Cincinnati today.

Dr. W. A. Galloway, who has attended the young man since the accident, will leave on the morning train with him for Cincinnati.

"The bituminous settlement is developing according to our expectations." The coal conference here convenes at 2 p. m. eastern standard time.

OHIO'S PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Figures compiled at the offices of the state public utilities commission show:

THAT there are 946,802 consumers of natural gas in Ohio, an increase of 13,791 over a year ago when there were 933,011.

THAT the electric light and power companies of the state have 708,673 customers, as against 602,618 a year ago, or an increase of 106,055 for the year.

THAT there are 808,013 telephone subscribers, or 22,258 more than a year ago when there were 785,755.

THAT there are 21,430 users of artificial gas.

THAT the city electric railway companies carried 719,242,805 passengers during 1921, as compared with 778,542,383 in 1920, a decrease of 59,299,578.

THAT the interurban companies carried 209,657,761 passengers in 1921, or 35,672,948 fewer than they carried in 1920 when the total was 245,330,709.

THAT the total capital investment of the natural gas, electric light, telephone, artificial gas, city and interurban electric railway companies in Ohio is more than $1,050,000,000.

THAT these public utility companies paid out approximately $20,000,000 in taxes during 1921.

The compilation discloses that it cost Ohio's privately-owned public service companies more than $177,000,000 during 1921 to furnish the people of the state with such necessities as light, heat, power, communication and electric transportation services.

Taxes paid out during the year by the various branches of utilities were as follows: Natural gas companies, $5,557,000; telephone companies, $3,059,000; electric light and power companies, $5,412,000; artificial gas companies, $123,000; city electric railways, $3,047,000; interurban railways, $2,591,000.

According to the commission's figures, the total operating expenses of the state's utilities during the year 1921 amounted to $177,582,800.97, while the total capital investment necessary was $1,059,710,277.52.

DISAPPEARANCE OF THE FAMILY COOK.

"If you drive through the environs of New York City—and the same is largely true of other localities—you will see hundreds of houses, large and small, marked 'For Sale.' They represent the capitulation of some family or other when the struggle for household service became too desperate. In the recent bulletin of the New York State Department of Labor, 'Women Who Work,' it is made clear that this familiar story of the vanishing servant girl has not been exaggerated. In New York State alone, and the statistics are fairly typical of other parts of the country, there are 59,506 fewer women in domestic and personal service than in 1910. There were then 322,969 and now only 263,463—a decrease of nearly 25 per cent in 1920.

"Moreover, what is classed as domestic and personal service in the 1920 list shows that only about one-half of the total number, or 135,252, are employed as actual domestic servants. Even though the domestic and personal service group is one in which women still predominate, since they form more than 50 per cent of the total number of workers, there is proof that men are invading many of the occupations usually reserved for women. There are 19,000 male cooks in Greater New York, as opposed to 21,000 women, and there are 28,000 men waiters, with only 16,000 waitresses. Men rarely work in the home, however, and hence the domestic problem is in no way affected.

"There are now 8,549,399 women who work in the United States, 1,135,948 in New York, and of those only 135,252 are household servants. It may be that the lure of modern opportunity is an answer to the question."

SOAP FOR FOUL MOUTHS.

A group of college lads have banded themselves together in the interests of clean minds and clean speech. To promote these worthy ambitions they propose to resort to a very old-fashioned remedy when foul or vulgar language betrays that all is not clean within. The violator of the cleanly code must chew soap. The details are interesting. For example:

Penalty for swearing—chew one piece of soap one-half inch square ten times per vile word.

Penalty for vulgarisms, such as unclean stories—chew one piece of soap one inch square vigorously twenty-five times.

Fun will be made of that society and fun will be made in it, but good will come of it, just the same. Profanity and unclean speech have become woefully common among people of all ages and classes in the last few years. The boys who have decided that the dirty mouth shall be scourged are setting a good example not only for their associates, but for their elders.

MARTYRS OF HOUSEKEEPING.

Obviously there are many jolly housekeepers who are not martyrs at all. They go frisking round the world, making merry at all times and in all places except near the domestic hearth. They are always ready for a dance or a frolic, ready to be gay and to make others gay, as if there were not a brush or a broom in the world. But look at their houses—or perhaps it is as well not to look at them. There are unwashed dishes and unmade beds and dust in the corners and so many things out of place that you begin to wonder whether the things ever had any places.

Observing all this, you decide that your way will be different. You may not be quite so gay; but the broom will be respected. The chairs will be in their accustomed spots, the floors will be clean the table will be properly set at the proper hours, with neat linen and dishes, and food upon it that has been thoughtfully prepared and that can be eaten with relish—not like the food you and Jim had the other day at that giddy Mrs. Jones's. You mean your husband and your children to have a home, to know the peace and comfort that come from good, careful housekeeping, and that can come from nothing else.

Which is all very well. Only, don't overdo it. Your husband and children will appreciate the comfort that comes from good housekeeping and appreciate it keenly. They will also appreciate the discomfort that comes from seeing you a martyr.

WELL, WHY IN SAM HILL DIDN'T THEY TRY THAT SEVERAL MONTHS AGO.

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

One of the big attractions on the program for this week is the picnic to be given by the members of St. Brigids Church at Lucas Grove on Wednesday.

One of the best evidences of the good times that prevail in Xenia now is the rush which the contractors and carpenters are having. New buildings are going up on all streets and it is a difficult matter to obtain carpenters in sufficient numbers to accomplish the work.

The completion of the Spring field and Xenia traction line adds another electric railway to Springfield via Dayton and Xenia line. The S. & X. is controlled by the Maydelbaum Syndicate, which is at war with the Appleyard Syndicate which controls the D. S. & U. It is also rumored that the Maydelbaum interests have their eyes on the D. & X. road.

The Spring Valley Blade has changed hands. We are informed that it is now owned by a stock company and Mr. Lusk is again manager of it.

CHOOSING A SKIN BLEACH

There have been so many inquiries regarding skin bleaches recently that I feel there is need for enlightenment concerning these lotions.

There are many ways of bleaching the skin, just as there are for bleaching fabrics; but only the simpler ones can be depended upon not to prove injurious. If a comparison could be drawn between skin and materials, the former would be found much more sensitive to the action of a bleach than the latter. It is surprising how many women there are who would never trust the bleaching of their linens to any other than the slow method of sun and evaporation, yet they expect to bleach their skins overnight and are willing to use ingredients that they would consider risky for their table damask. The reason for this, of course, is the fact they have never applied this same knowledge to the care of the skin.

The simplest bleaches are the juice from vegetables or acid fruit and such bleaching if done slowly, will not injure the skin. There may be some irritation from overdoing the same application, and since all skin acid applications neutralize the natural secretions at the time, oil or a cream should be worked into the pores later to make up to the skin its loss of the natural oils. There are some skins so sensitive that an oil massage will be needed even after the use of buttermilk. Bleaching with lemon juice should be always followed by a cream or oil massage.

The only occasion for a strong bleach should be when one desires to dissolve a liver spot, stain or the most offending freckles; and such bleaches should be applied locally, without spreading over the whole area of the skin and great care must be taken.

Bertha L.:—If your health is good, your falling hair should be treated with a good hair tonic several times each week plus a daily massage of the scalp. Impaired health will also cause scalp troubles and in such cases, the hair will always feel the bad effects therefrom, despite local treatment.

RADIO WILL BE FEATURE OF DARKE COUNTY FAIR

The Darke County Agricultural Society will have a radio outfit in the amphitheatre on the fair grounds this year, where concerts and radio news will be given during the Fair, Aug. 21-26. Several large horns will be used so that the entire program can be heard any place.

Admirer:—Cream from cow's milk

is never used on the face for a massage. You may use either olive or almond oil on the skin. At this season of the year olive oil, taken as a food, sometimes proves too heating. This oil does not affect constipation to any extent.

Eva:—When acid fails to dissolve a wart, it may often be gotten rid of by rubbing oil or salt into it each night.

Tomorrow—Cucumbers as an Effective Bleach.

ENGLAND SUFFERS BIG LOSS FROM DISABLED

Glasgow, Aug. 17.—The total sickness and disablement of population of Great Britain amounts to a permanently sick or disabled army of 804,000 persons, said Lieutenant Colonel Freemantle, M. P., at the meeting of the British Medical Association.

"The financial loss to the treasury through the incapacity of these people amounts to two and a half million pounds per annum; the loss to the national income from personal service amounts to fifty million pounds per annum; the employment of 200,000 doctors, chemists, nurses and attendants for home sickness costs fifty-nine million pounds per annum; in addition, the indirect effects of epidemics on industry cost eleven million pounds annually.

"Altogether the direct material loss to the community of England and Wales from sickness and disability amounts annually to one hundred and fifty million pounds."

ARE NOT AFFECTED.

Ironton, O., Aug. 17.—Lawrence County miners with a tonnage of about 500 tons per day are not affected by the Cleveland settlement. Except in two or three cases the mines are operated as open works and have been producing throughout the strike. Most of the local coal is being shipped over the D. T. and I. road on which there is no strike, it being Henry Ford's road.

CIRCUS TENT BLOWS DOWN

McArthur, Aug. 17.—Dr. Sun Yat a wild stampede of several hundred persons here when a circus tent blew down during a heavy rain storm. Many were hurt, but none seriously. The hero of the affair was a circus man who saved a small child from a falling tent pole, taking the blow himself.

FRANK LITTLE SPRINGS SURPRISE AT RACES

Frank Little, the Sabina-owned pacer by Little Frank, was a surprise winner at the Clark County Fair races Wednesday when Harry H. Stokes drove the gelding to a win in the Manufacturers' Stake for 2:11 pacers, which carried a $1,000 purse.

The stake was the best event of the afternoon, Julianne, with Benadum up, winner of the 2:14 pace at the local Fair meet, giving the son of Little Frank a race in all three heats, and finally taking position in the third heat for second money. Baroness Edgewood won third money in the event. The best time was 2:09 1-4 made in the first and third heats.

Harry Stokes, who drove Frank Little to a win in this event, also won first money in the Park Farm Stake, for three-year-old trotters, purse $1,000, the only other stake event of the afternoon, by taking both heats with Addie, a filly by Adio Guy. The best time was 2:15 1-4. Henry C., by Vance with Montgomery up, won the 2:15 pace, the best time being 2:11 1-4. Durand won a heat and second money in this event.

INJURY PROVES FATAL; CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN

Cincinnati, August 17.—Stubbornly refusing to disclose how he came by his injuries, James Stafford, 52, died Wednesday at the city hospital where he was taken on Sunday afternoon and treated for a broken arm. His parents told the hospital authorities that the lad came home Sunday with his arm limp and the explanation that he had hurt it in a fall. He would not tell where he fell or how, and the fractured left arm apparently was his only injury. Physicians at the hospital said the boy's death was due to a cerebral infection. The coroner will hold an inquest Thursday.

SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That.—Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."

Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner.

That's the truth of the matter. If you are suffering from any of the troubles women have, you ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.

ONE VIRTUE.

One little virtue I possess—I'm prompt in all my dealing; and oh, it fills me with distress, and makes me kick the ceiling, when some one who has made a date forgets or fails to meet it; and then I sing my hymn of hate; if I've a hat I eat it. "This fellow doesn't come on time, a measly trick of his'n," I cry, "he's guilty of a crime, and should be held in prison. I'll tell him what I think, gee whiz, as sure as I'm a Yankee;" the worst of any virtue is it makes its owner cranky. I have no patience with the men who turn their eyes to heaven and swear they'll come at half past ten, and don't show up till 'leven. From virtues they are not exempt; each has his shining merit, and looks upon me with contempt because I do not share it. Though Johnson seldom keeps a date, he's famous as a giver, and to the poor he sends a freight of spuds and beans and liver. Though Perkins leaves me in the lurch, nor heeds the words I'm breathin', he does a lot to help the church, and coughs up for the heathen. They doubtless think that I'm a fraud, my virtue notwithstanding, for I'm cemented to my mad, no helpful coins outthanding.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

UNDERSTANDING

We all like to be understood. And we like to feel that we in turn understand. But what is understanding?

It is difficult to explain. Somehow or other, understanding is just—understanding!

As near as I can put it, however, I would say that understanding between one person and another is that silent feeling which travels by way of the mind and heart to the soul—without commotion, freely, as the water runs its happy way over the stones and earth of its brook path. We think of God as one who understands. And the only way we are able to talk with Him is through our God heart.

Understanding is something that comes about without explanation. For explanations somehow only serve to confuse and often to bring about misunderstanding. I heard a friend pay a great tribute to a man—a man who lost his life on the Lusitania—and this is what she said of him: "You didn't have to explain to him—he just understood."

OHIO'S PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Figures compiled at the offices of the state public utilities commission show:

THAT there are 946,802 consumers of natural gas in Ohio, an increase of 13,791 over a year ago when there were 933,011.

THAT the electric light and power companies of the state have 708,673 customers, as against 602,618 a year ago, or an increase of 106,055 for the year.

THAT there are 808,013 telephone subscribers, or 22,258 more than a year ago when there were 785,755.

THAT there are 21,430 users of artificial gas.

THAT the city electric railway companies carried 719,242,805 passengers during 1921, as compared with 778,542,383 in 1920, a decrease of 59,299,578.

THAT the interurban companies carried 209,657,761 passengers in 1921, or 35,672,948 fewer than they carried in 1920 when the total was 245,330,709.

THAT the total capital investment of the natural gas, electric light, telephone, artificial gas, city and interurban electric railway companies in Ohio is more than $1,050,000,000.

THAT these public utility companies paid out approximately $20,000,000 in taxes during 1921.

The compilation discloses that it cost Ohio's privately-owned public service companies more than $177,000,000 during 1921 to furnish the people of the state with such necessities as light, heat, power, communication and electric transportation services.

Taxes paid out during the year by the various branches of utilities were as follows: Natural gas companies, $5,557,000; telephone companies, $3,059,000; electric light and power companies, $5,412,000; artificial gas companies, $123,000; city electric railways, $3,047,000; interurban railways, $2,591,000.

According to the commission's figures, the total operating expenses of the state's utilities during the year 1921 amounted to $177,532,800.97, while the total capital investment necessary was $1,059,710,277.52.

DISAPPEARANCE OF THE FAMILY COOK.

"If you drive through the environs of New York City—and the same is largely true of other localities—you will see hundreds of houses, large and small, marked 'For Sale.' They represent the capitulation of some family or other when the struggle for household service became too desperate. In the recent bulletin of the New York State Department of Labor, 'Women Who Work,' it is made clear that this familiar story of the vanishing servant girl has not been exaggerated. In New York State alone, and the statistics are fairly typical of other parts of the country, there are 59,506 fewer women in domestic and personal service than in 1910. There were then 322,969 and now only 263,463—a decrease of nearly 25 per cent in 1920.

"Moreover, what is classed as domestic and personal service in the 1920 list shows that only about one-half of the total number, or 135,252, are employed as actual domestic servants. Even though the domestic and personal service group is one in which women still predominate, since they form more than 50 per cent of the total number of workers, there is proof that men are invading many of the occupations usually reserved for women. There are 19,000 male cooks in Greater New York, as opposed to 21,000 women, and there are 28,000 men waiters, with only 16,000 waitresses. Men rarely work in the home, however, and hence the domestic problem is in no way affected.

"There are now 8,549,399 women who work in the United States, 1,135,948 in New York, and of those only 135,252 are household servants. It may be that the lure of modern opportunity is an answer to the question."

SOAP FOR FOUL MOUTHS.

A group of college lads have banded themselves together in the interests of clean minds and clean speech. To promote these worthy ambitions they propose to resort to a very old-fashioned remedy when foul or vulgar language betrays that all is not clean within. The violator of the cleanly code must chew soap. The details are interesting. For example:

Penalty for swearing—chew one piece of soap one-half inch square ten times per vile word.

Penalty for vulgarisms, such as unclean stories—chew one piece of soap one inch square vigorously twenty-five times.

Fun will be made of that society and fun will be made in it, but good will come of it, just the same. Profanity and unclean speech have become woefully common among people of all ages and classes in the last few years. The boys who have decided that the dirty mouth shall be scourged are setting a good example not only for their associates, but for their elders.

MARTYRS OF HOUSEKEEPING.

Obviously there are many jolly housekeepers who are not martyrs at all. They go frisking round the world, making merry at all times and in all places except near the domestic hearth. They are always ready for a dance or a frolic, ready to be gay and to make others gay, as if there were not a brush or a broom in the world. But look at their houses—or perhaps it is as well not to look at them. There are unwashed dishes and unmade beds and dust in the corners and so many things out of place that you begin to wonder whether the things ever had any places.

Observing all this, you decide that your way will be different. You may not be quite so gay; but the broom will be respected. The chairs will be in their accustomed spots, the floors will be clean the table will be properly set at the proper hours, with neat linen and dishes, and food upon it that has been thoughtfully prepared and that can be eaten with relish—not like the food you and Jim had the other day at that giddy Mrs. Jones's. You mean your husband and your children to have a home, to know the peace and comfort that come from good, careful housekeeping, and that can come from nothing else.

Which is all very well. Only, don't overdo it. Your husband and children will appreciate the comfort that comes from good housekeeping and appreciate it keenly. They will also appreciate the discomfort that comes from seeing you a martyr.

WELL, WHY IN SAM HILL DIDN'T THEY TRY THAT SEVERAL MONTHS AGO.

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

One of the big attractions on the program for this week is the picnic to be given by the members of St. Brigid's Church at Lucas Grove on Wednesday.

One of the best evidences of the good times that prevail in Xenia now is the rush which the contractors and carpenters are going up on all streets and it is a difficult matter to obtain carpenters in sufficient numbers to accomplish the work.

The completion of the Springfield and Xenia traction line adds another electric railway to Springfield via Dayton and Xenia line. The S. & X. is controlled by the Mandelbaum Syndicate, which is at war with the Appleyard Syndicate which controls the D. S. & U. It is also rumored that the Mandelbaum interests have their eyes on the D. & X. road.

The Spring Valley Blade has changed hands. We are informed that it is now owned by a stock company and Mr. Lusk is again manager of it.

CHOOSING A SKIN BLEACH

There have been so many inquiries regarding skin bleaches recently that I feel there is need for enlightenment concerning these lotions.

There are many ways of bleaching the skin, just as there are for bleaching fabrics; but only the simpler ones can be depended upon not to prove injurious. If a comparison could be drawn between skin and materials, the former would be found much more sensitive to the action of a bleach than the latter. It is surprising how many women there are who would never trust the bleaching of their linens to any other than the slow method of sun and evaporation, yet they expect to bleach their skins overnight and are willing to use ingredients that they would consider risky for their table damask. The reason for this, of course, is the fact they have never applied this same knowledge to the care of the skin.

The simplest bleaches are the juice from vegetables or acid fruit and such bleaching if done slowly, will not injure the skin. There may be some irritation from overdoing the acid applications, and since all skin bleaching will neutralize the natural secretions at the time, oil or a cream should be worked into the pores later to make up to the skin the loss of the natural oils. There are some skins so sensitive that an oil massage will be needed even after the use of butter-milk. Bleaching with lemon juice should be always followed by a cream or oil massage.

The only occasion for a strong bleach should be when one desires to dissolve a liver spot, stain or the most offending freckles; and such bleaches should be applied locally, without spreading over the whole area of the skin and great care must be taken.

Bertha L.:—If your health is good, your falling hair should be treated with a good hair tonic several times each week plus a daily massage of the scalp. Impaired health will also create scalp troubles and in such cases, the hair will always feel the bad effects therefrom, despite local treatment.

RADIO WILL BE FEATURE OF DARKE COUNTY FAIR

The Darke County Agricultural Society will have a radio outfit in the amphitheatre of the fair grounds this year, where concerts and radio news will be given during the Fair, Aug. 21-26. Several large horns will be used so that the entire program can be heard any place.

Admirer:—Cream from cow's milk is never used on the face for a massage. You may use either olive or almond oil on the skin. At this season of the year olive oil, taken as a food, sometimes proves too heating. This oil does not affect constipation to any extent.

Eva:—When acid fails to dissolve a wart, it may often be gotten rid of by rubbing oil or salt into it each night.

Tomorrow—Cucumbers as an Effective Bleach.

ENGLAND SUFFERS BIG LOSS FROM DISABLED

Glasgow, Aug. 17.—The total sickness and disablement of population of Great Britain amounts to a permanently sick or disabled army of 804,000 persons, said Lieutenant Colonel Freeman, M. P., at the meeting of the British Medical Association.

"The financial loss to the treasury through the incapacity of these people amounts to two and a half million pounds per annum; the loss to the national income from personal service amounts to fifty million pounds per annum; the employment of 200,000 doctors, chemists, nurses and attendants for home sickness costs fifty-nine million pounds per annum; in addition, the indirect effects of epidemics on industry cost eleven million pounds annually.

"Altogether the direct material loss to the community of England and Wales from sickness and disability amounts annually to one hundred and fifty million pounds."

ARE NOT AFFECTED.

Ironton, O., Aug. 17.—Lawrence County miners with a tonnage of about 500 tons per day are not affected by the Cleveland settlement. Except in two or three cases the mines are operated as open works and have been producing throughout the strike. Most of the local coal is being shipped over the D. T. and I. road on which there is no strike, it being Henry Ford's road.

CIRCUS TENT BLOWS DOWN

McArthur, Aug. 17.—Dr. Sun Yat a wild stampede of several hundred persons here when a circus tent blew down during a heavy rain storm. Many were hurt, but none seriously.

The hero of the affair was a circus man who saved a small child from a falling tent pole, taking the blow himself.

FRANK LITTLE SPRINGS SURPRISE AT RACES

Frank Little, the Sabina-owned pacer by Little Frank, was a surprise winner at the Clark County Fair races Wednesday when Harry H. Stokes drove the gelding to a win in the Manufacturers' Stake for 2:11 pacers, which carried a $1,000 purse.

The stake was the best event of the afternoon, Julianne, with Benadum up, winner of the 2:14 pace at the local fair meet, giving the son of Little Frank a race in all three heats, and finally taking position in the third heat for second money. Baroness Edgewood won third money in the event. The best time was 2:09 1-4 made in the first and third heats.

Harry Stokes, who drove Frank Little to a win in this event, also won first money in the Park Farm Stake, for three-year-old trotters, purse $1,000, the only other stake event of the afternoon, by taking both heats with Addie, a filly by Adio Guy. The best time was 2:15 1-4. Henry C. by Vance with Montgomery up, won the 2:15 pace, the best time being 2:11 1-4. Durand won a heat and second money in this event.

INJURY PROVES FATAL; CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN

Cincinnati, August 17.—Stubbornly refusing to disclose how he came by his injuries, James Stafford, 5, died Wednesday at the city hospital where he was taken on Sunday afternoon and treated for a broken arm. His parents told the hospital authorities that the lad came home Sunday with his arm limp and the explanation that he had hurt it in a fall. He would not tell where he fell or how, and the fractured left arm apparently was his only injury. Physicians at the hospital said the boy's death was due to a cerebral infection. The coroner will hold an inquest Thursday.

SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That.—Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."—Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner.

That's the truth of the matter. If you are suffering from any of the troubles women have, you ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.

ONE VIRTUE.

One little virtue I possess—I'm prompt in all my dealing; and oh, it fills me with distress, and makes me kick the ceiling, when some one who has made a date forgets or fails to meet it; and then I sing my hymn of hate; if I've a hat I eat it. "This fellow doesn't come on time, a measly trick of his'n," I cry, "he's guilty of a crime, and should be held in prison. I'll tell him what I think, gee whiz, as sure as I'm a Yankee;" the worst of any virtue is it makes its owner cranky. I have no patience with the men who turn their eyes to heaven and swear they'll come at half past ten, and don't show up till eleven. From virtues they are not exempt; each has his shining merit, and looks upon me with contempt because I do not share it. Though Johnson seldom keeps a date, he's famous as a giver, and to the poor he sends a freight of spuds and beans and liver. Though Perkins leaves me in the lurch, nor heeds the words I'm breathin', he does a lot to help the church, and coughs up for the heathen. They doubtless think that I'm a fraud, my virtue notwithstanding, for I'm cemented to my wad, no helpful coins outthanking.

Today's Talk

UNDERSTANDING

We all like to be understood. And we like to feel that we in turn understand. But what is understanding?

It is difficult to explain. Somehow or other, understanding is just—understanding!

As near as I can put it, however, I would say that understanding between one person and another is that silent, feeling which travels by way of the mind and heart to the soul—without commotion, freely, as the water runs its happy way over the stones and earth of its brook path.

We think of God as one who understands. And the only way we are able to talk with Him is through our God heart.

Understanding is something that comes about without explanation. For explanations somehow only serve to confuse and often to bring about misunderstanding.

XENIA OIL COMPANY SOLD TO PARAGON FIRM OF TOLEDO

Sale of the entire property and holdings of The Xenia Oil Company, a local corporation, to The Paragon Refining Company, of Toledo, was completed Wednesday according to announcement made Wednesday night.

Included in the deal, the consideration for which was not made public, are the two bulk stations of the local plant at Market street, and Dayton avenue and on South Collier street, two local filling stations, at Market street and Dayton avenue and at Cincinnati avenue and Mechanic St., and a bulk station at Jamestown, besides all equipment in use by the local company.

C. J. Leroux, treasurer of The Paragon Refining Company and I. C. Taber, Toledo, attorney for the concern, completed the deal here Wednesday with officials of the local concern. The transfer is effective at once without interruption to business and without a change in the personnel of the Xenia concern, which will operate in the future as a branch of the Toledo company. C. J. June, Springfield representative of the Paragon Company will be temporarily to assist during the readjustment period.

The Xenia Oil Company was organized three years ago with local capital. A year and one-half ago the entire organization changed, new stockholders becoming interested and new officers being elected. Mrs. B. Burns, of Dayton, was president of the company, S. J. Burns, of this city, vice president and H. R. Swisher, Xenia, secretary. Mr. Burns and Mr. Swisher being associated in the management of the business. Since the organization period, the concern has gradually increased its business, the establishment of the Jamestown branch coming during this period of expansion.

The corporation markets its product under the name of the Paragon products, with a special lubricating oil known as Petrolene and a special gasoline for winter use.

According to announcement made by Mr. Leroux following the sale Wednesday, the personnel of the local company will remain in charge of what will in the future be known as a Paragon branch, with the possibility that the organization will be increased rather than decreased.

CAUSE OF STRIKERS UPHELD BY CHURCH

Washington, Aug. 17.—The cause of striking railroad workers was upheld in the main in a report made public by the research department of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The report was entitled "Some Moral Aspects of the Railroad Strike."

The council's report explains at length why the railroad strikers refused President Harding's proposal to arbitrate seniority, stating that such a step would be virtually to "arbitrate the right to strike."

The decision of the railway labor board that a striker automatically loses his seniority rights is manifestly recognized by the administration as very unfortunate," said the report. As for sporadic outbursts of violence, the council found that the "arming of undisciplined men who are too ready to assert their authority and use their guns," was in the main responsible.

NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH AS ARTERY IS SEVERED

Cincinnati, August 17. — Harry Ellsburg, 10, narrowly escaped bleeding to death Wednesday afternoon when Freddie Spiegel, 11, son of former judge Arthur Spiegel and grandson of ex mayor Spiegel, struck him in the neck with a piece of glass while a crowd of boys was "playing war." The sharp missile severed an artery when it struck and the little "soldier" was rushed to the hospital just in time to save his life. His condition is still said to be serious because of lost blood.

LIMEHOUSE NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE WHEN IT WAS SCENE OF INTERNATIONAL BATTLES

London, Aug. 17.—"Limehouse? Yes, sir; 'ere it is."

"No, sir, it ain't wot it used to be. Bimey, I gets terrible bored down 'ere. I asked the inspector to-night for a transfer up to the West End, 'oping as 'ow I might get a bit of excitement up there."

P. C. Margesson, police constable on duty at the corner of Burdett street and East India Dock Road down in the heart of Limehouse, once the world's worst quarter, was speaking.

"'Ere, you, 'oppit now, get," shouted the P. C. at an urchin who was sidling up behind a costermonger's cart trying to filch a handful of those little shell fish known as periwinkles, which are so dear to the heart and palate of East London.

"There you re sir, that's the worst we gets in Limehouse these nights, kids a-trying to pinch a 'winkle or two," said the P. C. with considerable disgust.

Limehouse nights certainly aren't what they used to be, when the raff of the world came down from the docks and made Limehouse a nightly international battlefield.

Men from all corners of the world still slip off their ships and stroll down East India Dock Road. There are Malays and Lascars, with turbaned heads; long-cued Chinamen, sturdy little Japs, black men from Africa, blond giants from the Scandinavias, bearded sailors of the Baltic, raucous-voiced Americans and hordes of deep-throated English sailors.

SWARM PUBLIC HOUSES They swarm to the corner public houses and they guzzle their beer. Some of them fall for the lure of swishing skirts and carmine lips. Altogether Limehouse has the appearance of being a place full of swarthy, rough and ready men, but its battles are few and its nights of murderous assaults are now only on the motion picture films.

Slinky Chinmen still slide and glide up the narrow, dimly lighted streets of Limehouse, but the opium dens and the houses of gambling are few and far between. The police have their eyes on the side street caverns and the way of the "hop head is hard in Limehouse.

Husky bouncers still abound in the public houses, but for the most part they stroll over the sawdust floors and yawn with ennui. Barmaids are behind the bar and they seldom have to call on the bouncer for aid and succor. An occasional sailorman gets obstreperous, but he is treated with such hearty disdain by his comrades, who want their "arfapintabitter" in peace and quiet that the bolterous one doesn't create much of a stir.

Limehouse is still no place for a minister's son, because the men of Limehouse don't like softies but the average person who attends to his own affairs and doesn't invite an attack or get into the too sparsely travelled by-ways is safe in Limehouse. Of course there are criminals in Limehouse who take advantage of the unfamiliar who travel from the beaten paths, but the lure of the old Limehouse nights is gone.

The world may be getting better. Limehouse certainly is.

XENIA OIL COMPANY SOLD TO PARAGON FIRM OF TOLEDO

Sale of the entire property and holdings of The Xenia Oil Company, a local corporation, to The Paragon Refining Company, of Toledo, was completed Wednesday according to announcement made Wednesday night.

Included in the deal, the consideration for which was not made public, are the two bulk stations of the local plant at Market street, and Dayton avenue and on South Collier Street, two local filling stations, at Market Street and Dayton Avenue and at Cincinnati Avenue and Mechanic St., and a bulk station at Jamestown, besides all equipment in use by the local company.

C. J. Leroux, treasurer of The Paragon Refining Company and I. C. Taber, Toledo, attorney for the concern, completed the deal here Wednesday with officials of the local concern. The transfer is effective at once without interruption to business and without a change in the personnel of the Xenia concern, which will operate in the future as a branch of the Toledo Company. C. J. June, Springfield, representative of the Paragon Company will be here temporarily to assist during the readjustment period.

The Xenia Oil Company was organized three years ago with local capital. A year and one-half ago the entire organization changed, new stockholders becoming interested and new officers being elected. Mrs. B. Burns, of Dayton, was president of the company, S. J. Burns, of this city, vice president and H. R. Swisher, Xenia, secretary. Mr. Burns and Mr. Swisher being associated in the management of the business. Since the reorganization period, the concern has gradually increased its business, the establishment of the Jamestown branch coming during this period of expansion.

The Paragon Refining Company of Toledo, is a ten million dollar corporation, which has been in operation 30 years. The company refines gasoline, kerosene, fuel oil lubricants, operating refineries at Toledo, and marketing stations through Ohio, New York and Michigan, as well as production and pipe lines covering these states, and include oil storage stations and pipe lines in Texas and Kansas. The corporation markets its product under the name of the Paragon products, with a special lubricating oil known as Petrolene and a special gasoline for winter use.

According to announcement made by Mr. Leroux following the sale Wednesday, the personnel of the local company will remain in charge of what will in the future be known as a Paragon branch, with the possibility that the organization will be increased rather than decreased.

CAUSE OF STRIKERS UPHELD BY CHURCH

Washington, Aug. 17.—The cause of striking railroad workers was upheld in the main in a report made public by the research department of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The report was entitled "Some Moral Aspects of the Railroad Strike."

The council report explains at length why the railroad strikers refused President Harding's proposal to arbitrate seniority, stating that such a step would be virtually to "arbitrate the right to strike."

The decision of the railway labor board that a striker automatically loses his seniority rights is manifestly recognized by the administration as very unfortunate, said the report. As for sporadic outbursts of violence, the council found that the "arming of undisciplined men who are too ready to assert their authority and use their guns," was in the main responsible.

The sharp missile severed an artery when it struck and the little "soldier" was rushed to the hospital just in time to save his life. His condition is still said to be serious because of lost blood.

LIMEHOUSE NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE WHEN IT WAS SCENE OF INTERNATIONAL BATTLES

London, Aug. 17.—"Limehouse? Yes, sir; 'ere it is."

"No, sir, it ain't wot it used to be. Bimey, I gets terrible bored down 'ere. I asked the inspector to-night for a transfer up to the West End, 'oping as 'ow I might get a bit of excitement up there."

P. C. Margesson, police constable on duty at the corner of Burdett street and East India Dock Road down in the heart of Limehouse, once the world's worst quarter, was speaking.

"'Ere, you, 'opit now, get," shouted the P. C. at an urchin who was sidling up behind a costermonger's cart trying to slich a handful of those little shell fish known as periwinkles, which are so dear to the heart and palate of East London.

"There you re sir, that's the worst we gets in Limehouse these nights, kids a-trying to pinch a 'winkle or two," said the P. C. with considerable disgust.

Limehouse nights certainly aren't what they used to be, when the raff of the world came down from the docks and made Limehouse a nightly international battlefield.

Men from all corners of the world still slip off their ships and stroll down East India Dock Road. There are Malays and Lascars, with turbaned heads; long-cued Chinamen, sturdy little Japs, black men from Africa, blond giants from the Scandinavians, bearded sailors of the Baltic, raucous-voiced Americans and hordes of deep-throated English sailors.

SWARM PUBLIC HOUSES

They swarm to the corner public houses and they guzzle their beer. Some of them fall for the lure of swishing skirts and carmined lips. Altogether Limehouse has the appearance of being a place full of swarthy, rough and ready men, but its battles are few and its nights of murderous assaults are now only on the motion picture films.

Slinky Chinamen still slide and glide up the narrow, dimly lighted streets of Limehouse, but the opium dens and the houses of gambling are few and far between. The police have their eyes on the side street caverns and the way of the "hop head" is hard in Limehouse.

Husky bouncers still abound in the public houses, but for the most part they stroll over the sawdust floors and yawn with ennui. Barmaids are behind the bar and they seldom have to call on the bouncer for aid and succor. An occasional sailorman gets obstreperous, but he is treated with such hearty disdain by his comrades, who want their "arfapintabitter" in peace and quiet that the boisterous one doesn't create much of a stir.

Limehouse is still no place for a minister's son, because the men of Limehouse don't like softies but the average person who attends to his own affairs and doesn't invite an attack or get into the too sparsely travelled by-ways is safe in Limehouse. # HEALTH COMMISSIONER CONFIDENT THAT TYPHOID EPIDEMIC CHECKED; WARNING ISSUED BY STATE DEPARTMENT NOW

In spite of persistent rumors, that more cases of typhoid fever are developing here, Dr. R. H. Grube, City and County Health Commissioner, is confident that the epidemic that claimed several lives and affected more than 40 people for several weeks during June and July, has been effectually checked.

Only one new case, and that a contact case which developed in the district where most of the cases during the epidemic appeared, has been reported to Dr. Grube within the last few days, he said Thursday. Physicians who are asked every day, are not reporting any new cases whatever.

However, steps to eliminate possible sources of the disease, are being taken. The Health Department is still operating under the emergency created by the City Commission, and which gives full power to the department during an epidemic. The city water is believed to be eliminated as a source following steps to prevent possible contamination and periodical tests.

Under these provisions city sanitary police are enforcing the cleaning of all vaults and outhouses, requiring sanitary sewer connections where such connections are possible, cleaning up dumping places and yards, and enforcing all sanitary rules possible. In like measure the milk supply is being carefully watched and inspections being made of cows and dairies alike.

Dr. H. A. Hoffman, veterinarian, is conducting the inspection of milk herds that furnish milk to Xenia dealers and is also inspecting the local dairies. His investigations are followed by advice to farmers and dairymen in how to maintain sanitary standards and no drastic steps will be taken until this advice is ignored.

All recent milk samples taken and tested for bacteria colonies, have proven that milk now supplied Xenia consumers is well within the standards set by Dayton and other cities, according to Dr. Grube. Pasteurization of milk is eliminating the possibility of the presence of typhoid germs, and dairymen are co-operating in the attempt to give the city pure milk, it is said.

The eventual establishment of graded milk, is the aim of the health commissioner, he said Thursday. It is his hope then to have three grades: The certified milk, which is a raw milk furnished under highly sanitary conditions, and which is usually sold at higher price; grade "A" raw milk, which is produced from tubercular tested cows and has less than 100,000 bacteria count to the cubic centimeter, and pasteurized milk, which also must come under a 100,000 bacteria count. There is no attempt now on the part of any milk dealer to furnish certified milk, and the pasteurized variety is now in vogue altogether.

The following warning against typhoid was recently sent over the state by Dr. F. G. Boudreau, state epidemiologist:

"The typhoid fever season is now upon us. Hundreds of Ohioans will contract this unnecessary and preventable disease during August and September, and scores will die as the result of it.

"Among those who recover the death rate will be twice as great as the normal during the two years following recovery. In other words, those who recover will be left in such a condition as to be more susceptible to other diseases, and having contracted such a disease, will be more apt to die from its effects.

"Every case of typhoid fever is the source of other cases. Every patient is a link in the chain. Every epidemic begins with one case, and every case is the beginning of a possible epidemic. The disease is spread by germs given off in the discharges of typhoid fever patients. The germs must be swallowed to set up the disease. They are transferred from patients to susceptible persons by fingers, food, flies, milk and water. When one case occurs in a family other persons are apt to contract the disease, just as in smallpox, but in a smaller percentage.

"The prophylaxis for the individual consists in the use of typhoid vaccine distributed without charge by the state department of health.

"Care should be exercised in the selection of milk, water and foods. Contact with the disease should be avoided.

"Health commissioners should investigate every case to determine the possible sources. All such sources must be abated. Only in this way can epidemics be prevented. Continual safeguarding of water, milk and food supplies also is necessary.

"Typhoid fever costs the state of Ohio at least $5,000,000 every year in depreciation and loss of vital capital and interruption of wealth producing labor. The individual suffers also because of doctors bills, hospital expenses and other outlays incident to illness.

"If a small fraction of this sum were expended in preventive work, typhoid fever would become as rare as plague in Ohio."

HOW WOOL CLOTH IS MADE

A large part of our wool fibre, for the making of garments, comes from sheep, although some wool comes from the camel, the angora goat, the llama and the alpaca. Parts of Australia, England, Spain, Africa, Germany, South America, Canada and the United States are well known sheep-raising localities which produce much wool.

Sheep are sheared in April or May. The wool is clipped from the body of the animal and removed in one piece which is called the "fleece." Sheep which are well cared for and properly fed, produce the best wool. Merino wool is the finest variety.

Wool fibre varies from two and one-half to ten and one-half inches in length. If you examine a wool fibre under a microscope you will find the outside of the fibre covered with tiny scales called "serrations." These serrations lap over each other very much like the outside scales on a pine cone. When heat and moisture are applied to wool fibre, the serrations soften and if pressure is used they are locked together. This locking together is known as the "felting property" of wool, and because wool has this property it is possible to make from it cloth and yarn of a close, firm texture.

When the fleece, sheared from the sheep, reaches the manufacturer, it is submitted to a series of warm soapy baths to rid it of its dirt and excessive oiliness. If you have ever placed your hand on a sheep's back, you will remember how oily the wool felt. After the warm baths, the wool fibre is dried in a machine called a "hydro-extractor" and is then beaten into a fluffy mass.

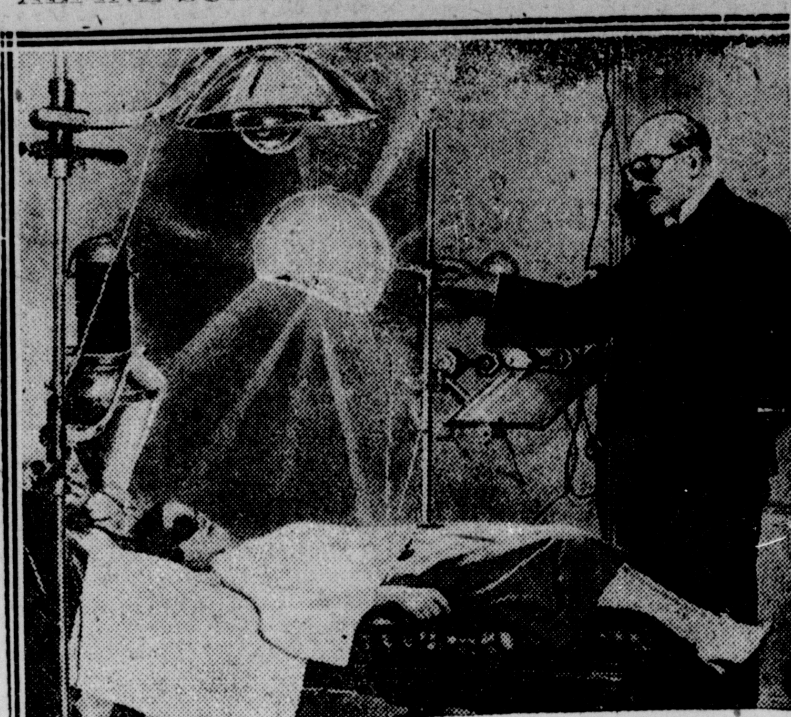

Now that the wool is clean and fluffy it is moistened with a little water and better for spinning. There are two kinds of yarn made from it—olive oil to make it soft and elastic worsted yarn and woolen yarn. Worsted yarn is made from wool that has been combed until all the fibres lie parallel before they are twisted into yarn; woolen yarn is made from shorter fibres, which run in every direction when the yarn is ready for weaving. In other words, woolen yarn is more "fuzzy" than worsted yarn. The worsted yarn is used for making materials that are to show the weave plainly—like serge. The woolen yarn is used to make cloth which has a fuzzy face—like broadcloth.

Mrs. C. S. Answer: I would advise you to scrape off any loose flakes of the enamel before you begin to repaint the bed. Wherever the metal is exposed, roughen slightly by rubbing with a file or with coarse sandpaper, and touch up with flat paint. When dry give the bed an entire rubbing with fine sandpaper, to make a more or less rough surface on the white enamel. Apply a coat of brown flat paint to this, let dry, rub again with fine sandpaper (this time to remove brushmarks) and put on a final coat of brown enamel paint. To make the work doubly successful, you may use an extra coat of either the flat paint or the enamel.

The EARL Cabriole is Here

At $1395, it is amazing value in a fine 4-passenger closed car. Come in and see it today

ALL the beauty, the friendly convenience and practical utility you have wanted and looked for in an enclosed motor car, you can see, test and enjoy now in the new Earl Cabriole. Open, it is airy as a touring car for summer and autumn driving. Yet it can be sealed in a minute against rain or dust or wind storm.

At $1395, its tangible every-day-in-the-year value will strike you as extraordinary. Its character and uncrowded ease are suggested by the "comfort specifications" in an adjoining column. Yet skilled design has kept its weight down to 2780 pounds—carried lower on longer and more resilient springs than in any other car of the Earl's wheel base.

The Cabriole will delight you

Only a careful "close-up" of the Earl Cabriole will give you an idea of its faultless proportions, the distinction of its sweeping lines, the rich harmony of genuine gray leather within and Earl blue and black without.

The more you are inclined to ask of an enclosed car—all-weather comfort, flexible power without extravagance, ease of handling, speed for emergencies, and ability to go anywhere a motor car can be driven—the more satisfying you will find the Cabriole. Come in today and see it. Study it feature by feature. Drive it yourself. You'll say: "At last! My idea of a motor car."

Comfort Specifications

Generous body dimensions, with a very low center of gravity and perfect balance, make for unusual riding qualities in the Earl Cabriole. Its over-all length is 14 feet, lacking one inch. Coupled with 56-inch rear springs, a rigid 7-inch channel frame with five cross-members, and special spirals in tilted cushions, this roominess provides road comfort unsurpassed by cars of much greater first cost and operating expense.

Low sweeping lines give the Cabriole its special distinction. Its over-all height without passengers is only 74 inches. Head room is ample, however—from seats to top lining, 37 inches. The front tonneau is 53 inches long. The rear seat is 45½ inches wide, seating three without undue crowding.

The very wide plate glass door panels are lever-controlled and can be raised or lowered without effort in the fraction of a minute. The one-piece, clear-vision windshield swings inward or outward. Ventilation of the Cabriole, therefore, can be regulated to a nicety. The individual seats can be tipped forward at right angles, the backs folding flat. With the extra wide doors, this makes entrance and exit easy from either side. The Cabriole's complete equipment includes sun visor, windshield wiper and dome light.

They are transferred from patients to susceptible persons by fingers, food, flies, milk and water. When one case occurs in a family other persons are apt to contract the disease, just as in smallpox, but in a smaller percentage.

"The prophylaxis for the individual consists in the use of typhoid vaccine distributed without charge by the state department of health.

"Care should be exercised in the selection of milk, water and foods. Contact with the disease should be avoided.

"Health commissioners should investigate every case to determine the possible sources. All such sources must be abated. Only in this way can epidemics be prevented. Continual safeguarding of water, milk and food supplies also is necessary.

"Typhoid fever costs the state of Ohio at least $5,000,000 every year in depreciation and loss of vital capital and interruption of wealth producing labor. The individual suffers also because of doctors bills, hospital expenses and other outlays incident to illness.

"If a small fraction of this sum were expended in preventive work, typhoid fever would become as rare as plague in Ohio."

To Whom it may concern:

Dayton, Ohio, June 5, 1921.

This is to certify that I have been ailing for some months—weight 260 pounds—but more sick, sore, aching and rheumatic, with irregular circulation. I could not get warm. I was told by the doctors "too much ACID in the SYSTEM." This condition caused nervousness and prevented restful sleep. I tried doctor's medicine and other remedies—all without relief. I was told the only cure would be Mt. Clemens or French Lick. However, upon hearing of Drs. Harter and Noble, "HOT SPRINGS OF DAYTON," Sulphur Vapor Baths and Chiropractors, I was prevailed upon to give trial. After sixty days I have reduced in weight to 196 pounds and am enjoying complete health, and after this most wonderful treatment am thankful for a new lease on life.

Yours for health,

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

HOW WOOL CLOTH IS MADE
A large part of our wool fibre, for the making of garments, comes from sheep, although some wool comes from the camel, the angora goat, the llama and the alpaca. Parts of Australia, England, Spain, Africa, Germany, South America, Canada and the United States are well known sheep-raising localities which produce much wool.

Sheep are sheared in April or May. The wool is clipped from the body of the animal and removed in one piece which is called the "fleece." Sheep which are well cared for and properly fed, produce the best wool. Merino wool is the finest variety.

Wool fibre varies from two and one-half to ten and one-half inches in length. If you examine a wool fibre under a microscope you will find the outside of the fibre covered with tiny scales called "serrations." These serrations lap over each other very much like the outside scales on a pine cone. When heat and moisture are applied to wool fibre, the serrations soften and if pressure is used they are locked together. This locking together is known as the "felting property" of wool, and because wool has this property it is possible to make from it cloth and yarn of a close, firm texture.

When the fleece, sheared from the sheep, reaches the manufacturer, it is submitted to a series of warm soapy baths to rid it of its dirt and excessive oiliness. If you have ever placed your hand on a sheep's back, you will remember how oily the wool felt. After the warm baths, the wool fibre is dried in a machine called a "hydro-extractor" and is then beaten into a fluffy mass.

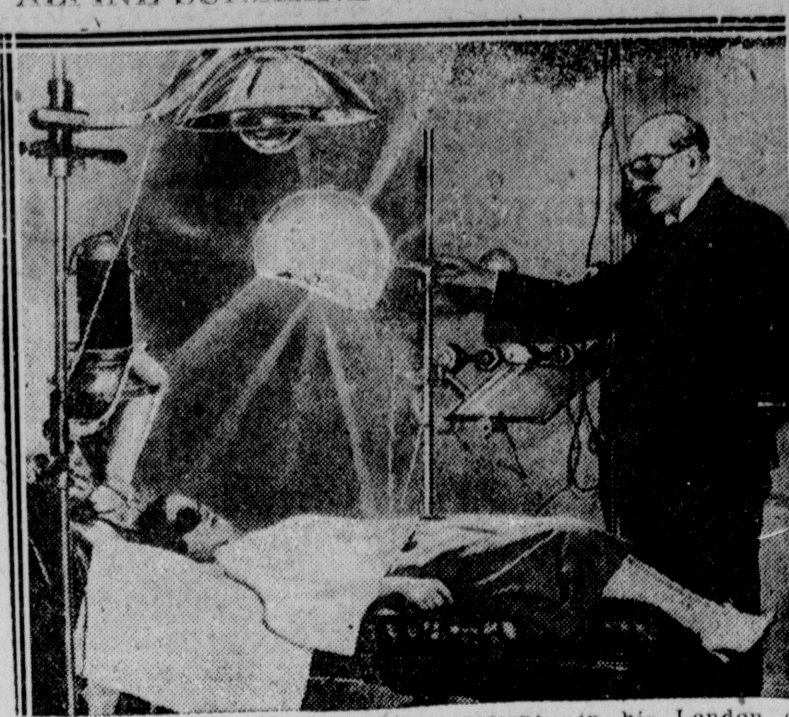

Now that the wool is clean and fluffy it is moistened with a little water and better for spinning. There are two kinds of yarn made from it—

olive oil to make it soft and elastic worsted yarn and woolen yarn. Worsted yarn is made from wool that has been combed until all the fibres lie parallel before they are twisted into yarn; woolen yarn is made from shorter fibres, which run in every direction when the yarn is ready for weaving. In other words, woolen yarn is more "fuzzy" than worsted yarn. The worsted yarn is used for making materials that are to show the weave plainly—like serge. The woolen yarn is used to make cloth which has a fuzzy face—like broadcloth.

Mrs. C. S. Answer: I would advise you to scrape off any loose flakes of the enamel before you begin to repaint the bed. Wherever the metal is exposed, roughen slightly by rubbing with a file or with coarse sandpaper, and touch up with flat paint. When dry give the bed an entire rubbing with fine sandpaper, to make a more or less rough surface on the white enamel. Apply a coat of brown flat paint to this, let dry, rub again with fine sandpaper (this time to remove brushmarks) and put on a final coat of brown enamel paint. To make the work doubly successful, you may use an extra coat of either the flat paint or the enamel.

The EARL Cabriole is Here

At $1395, it is amazing value in a fine 4-passenger closed car. Come in and see it today

ALL the beauty, the friendly convenience and practical utility you have wanted and looked for in an enclosed motor car, you can see, test and enjoy now in the new Earl Cabriole. Open, it is airy as a touring car for summer and autumn driving. Yet it can be sealed in a minute against rain or dust or wind storm.

At $1395, its tangible every-day-in-the-year value will strike you as extraordinary. Its character and uncrowded ease are suggested by the "comfort specifications" in an adjoining column. Yet skilled design has kept its weight down to 2780 pounds—carried lower on longer and more resilient springs than in any other car of the Earl's wheel base.

The Cabriole will delight you

Only a careful "close-up" of the Earl Cabriole will give you an idea of its faultless proportions, the distinction of its sweeping lines, the rich harmony of genuine gray leather within and Earl blue and black without.

The more you are inclined to ask of an enclosed car—all-weather comfort, flexible power without extravagance, ease of handling, speed for emergencies, and ability to go anywhere a motor car can be driven—the more satisfying you will find the Cabriole. Come in today and see it. Study it feature by feature. Drive it yourself. You'll say: "At last! My idea of a motor car."

Comfort Specifications

Generous body dimensions, with a very low center of gravity and perfect balance, make for unusual riding qualities in the Earl Cabriole. Its over-all length is 14 feet, lacking one inch. Coupled with 56-inch rear springs, a rigid 7-inch channel frame with five cross-members, and special spirals in tilted cushions, this roominess provides road comfort unsurpassed by cars of much greater first cost and operating expense.

Low sweeping lines give the Cabriole its special distinction. Its over-all height without passengers is only 74 inches. Head room is ample, however—from seats to top lining, 37 inches. The front tonneau is 53 inches long. The rear seat is 45½ inches wide, seating three without undue crowding.

The very wide plate glass door panels are lever-controlled and can be raised or lowered without effort in the fraction of a minute. The one-piece, clear-vision windshield swings inward or outward. Ventilation of the Cabriole, therefore, can be regulated to a nicety. The individual seats can be tipped forward at right angles, the backs folding flat. With the extra wide doors, this makes entrance and exit easy from either side. The Cabriole's complete equipment includes sun visor, windshield wiper and dome light.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT WORK IS DELAYED

Columbus, August 17.—Recent orders from the federal fuel administration that the open type of freight cars be used exclusively in hauling coal during the present emergency, according to State Highway Director Herrick, is interfering with improvement of Ohio's highways.

The open type freight cars, according to Director Herrick, is the type necessary in transporting road building materials. Contractors on state road improvements who haven't sufficient material on hand, or who are unable to obtain it by truck, are hindered, hit by these orders, Director Herrick asserted.

One contractor in southern Ohio has suspended work on his road improvement contract, due to inability to secure materials.

Declaring that "until railway operations of all classes are brought to a realization that so long as the Railway Labor Board exists, its findings must be accepted, subject to later review if unsatisfactory, we cannot hope for stability of railway operation," the governing board of the Miami Valley Traffic Club has wired President Harding, urging that "whatever settlement is made be predicated on the needs of the future rather than upon immediate necessities, pressing as they may be."

The wire suggests that in the presence of apparent improvement in railway operation, the administration keep hands off, as attempts to mediate only seem to hearten the strikers to flout the constituted authority of the Labor Board. The telegram points out "but for valiant efforts put forth by most carriers to recruit their shop forces, the country would, today, be facing transportation demoralization."

They say that the Pittsburgh company obtains without difficulty all the coal that it wants from the fields which logically supply the Cincinnati market.

COAL IS PASSING THROUGH CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, August 17.—That thousands of tons of coal are passing through Cincinnati daily for lake fuel purposes on permits issued to Pittsburgh coal company through some "pull" which that corporation enjoys while Cincinnati coal dealers are unable to obtain permits for coal to be used here in essential industries, is charged by local distributors. They say that the Pittsburgh company obtains without difficulty all the coal that it wants from the fields which logically supply the Cincinnati market.

COMPARE SOILS OF AMERICA WITH THOSE OF EUROPE

Washington.—Exhaustive comparisons of the principal soils of Europe and America have been made by Dr. C. F. Marbut, of the Department of Agriculture, who has just returned to the United States after nearly three months' travel in Western, Central, Southern and Southeastern Europe. The purpose of Dr. Marbut's visit was to study the soils, collect samples and to confer with scientists in various countries.

While in Europe he covered between 5,000 and 6,000 miles, collecting 250 soil samples in France, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Jugoslavia, England, Italy and Greece.

The object of his investigation, according to Dr. Marbut, was to get samples and to see how nearly the great soil groups of the continent compare with those that are recognized in this country.

Dr. Marbut's report to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace gives the following comparisons of European and American soils.

The soils in Central Czechoslovakia are almost identical with the soils in southeastern Pennsylvania, known as Chester soils.

The Hungarian plains, known locally as the Puszta, have a rich, dark soil, with plenty of lime that resembles in color the soils of Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois. In other respects, however, this soil is more like the type found in Western Minnesota and the Eastern Dakotas, the extreme western part of Iowa and East Central Kansas. Corn, wheat, oats, barley and alfalfa are the principal crops on this level land of Hungary.

The great interior prairie of Transylvania belongs to the same types as the Houston black clay and Houston clay, the black, waxy lands of Texas. The principal crops of this prairie are corn—known throughout Southeastern Europe as cucurus—small grains and alfalfa.

The plain of Rumania, a southwestern extension of the great plains of Southern Russia, is divided into three principal parts. The western mountainous border originally supported a great oak forest and has a subsoil containing much more lime than is usually found in the oak-growing soils here.

HIGH BROWN LOAM

The soil is a rich brown loam. East of these oak-forest soils is a belt of black soils which covers the greater part of Bessarabia and a part of Moldavia and resembles the wheat-growing soils of the central part of the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. Still farther east in Rumania are lighter colored brown soils which seem to correspond to the soils of the high plains of Texas in the region about Amarillo.

Throughout the Athens basin in Greece lime carbonate accumulation is found in the soil at shallow depth, except locally, where recent accumulations of alluvium have taken place. The soils here are comparable to those near Tucson, Arizona. The soil of the plains of Thessaly, in northern Greece resembles that of Western Nebraska beyond the sandhills country. The color is dark, and there is an abundance of lime in the subsoil.

Much of the land to the north and East of Rome is poor and badly eroded, the lack of crops other than sparse pasture being due to lack of soil. To the east there is much soil with a compacted subsoil or hardpan much like that found in the San Joaquin Valley of California.

In his trip across Northern France Dr. Marbut found the best grass lands in Europe. It is a limestone soil, much like that found in the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky, but shallower.

GERMAN SOIL BROWN

In the western part of South Germany is a dark brown limestone soil that grows a great deal of alfalfa and much fruit. Further east the land is more hilly and grows much grass, but the stock is not kept on pasture. These soils of Southern Germany also resemble those of the best part of Kentucky, the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia and the Lebanon and Cumberland valleys of Pennsylvania. In the vicinity of Leipzig the land in many respects is not unlike that of Central Indiana, known as Miami soils.

The typical English farm soil was found to be similar to that in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Marbut became a member of committee of the International Conference of Soil Scientists, of which Professor Murgoci, of Bucharest, is chairman. The committee is to take up and make recommendations to the next meeting of the conference regarding the differentiation and mapping of soils.

DETROIT IS PLACED IN EASTERN TIME ZONE

Washington, Aug. 17.—Detroit was placed within the standard eastern time zone in an order issued today by the interstate commerce commission. The commission said it was not practicable, however, to require railroads operating out of Detroit to break their time more than at present, and no change in their operating standard will be made.

The order will be effective at 2 a. m. August 27.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR ALLEGED FRAUD CASES

Henry Bayless, colored, bound over for obtaining money under false pretense, was released on $500 bond Wednesday in the court of Magistrate J. E. Jones.

Bayless was employed as a foreman, superintending certain work being carried on at Antioch college. He was securing money to pay the men under him 60 cents an hour, but it is alleged was holding back some of the wages, and converting it to his own use. One of the workmen caused his arrest. The next session of the grand jury will be held in October, unless the jury is called soon by the court.

David Pettiford, colored, of Yellow Springs, charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses, furnished $500 bond in common pleas court and was released. His case will be heard before the next session of the grand jury. Pettiford has been in jail twelve days, having been bound over from the court of Magistrate Longnecker of Osborn.

WILL DELAY WITHDRAWING OF TROOPS FROM MINES

Washington, Aug. 16.—Governor Sprout, of Pennsylvania, will not withdraw national guard troops from the coal fields of that state until the mine strike is completely settled, he informed International News Service today.

Sprout said the agreement signed in Cleveland affected only 10 percent of the mines in Pennsylvania, thirty per cent of the Pennsylvania mines are now operating, he said.

Indomitable Durant

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

Indomitable Durant

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

CHURCH ON WHEELS IS INNOVATION IN RELIGIOUS CIRCLES

Chicago.—A church on wheels—that is the latest religious innovation in this part of the country. It is an exhibition at Wilmett, a suburb of Chicago. It is one of the three chapel cars of the Catholic Extension Society of which the Right Rev. Mgr. Francis C. Kelly, of Chicago, is president.

Daily hundreds of Catholics and others visit the "church on wheels" and attend services.

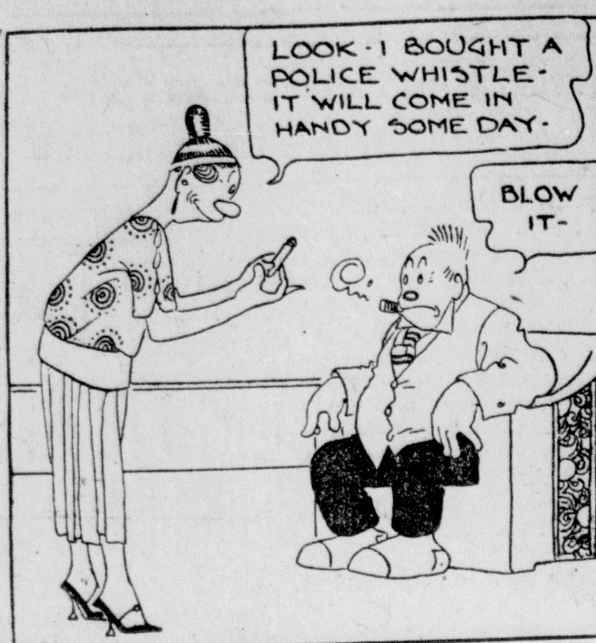

The car, named the "St. Paul," is a combined church and rectory. Seating and kneeling accommodations are provided for fifty-four people; it has a permanent altar, a confessional, library, a kitchen and quarters for the missionaries and attendants.

The Rev. E. J. McGuinness, LL. D., is in charge of the car. It will remain at its present location for a week or two and will then be taken on tour of the East to demonstrate to Eastern Catholics the work that has been done elsewhere. The "church on wheels" has had four years of continuous service in Texas and Louisiana, carrying the ministrations of the church to Catholics isolated in some cases hundreds of miles from a Catholic Church.

Thousands of Catholics, who had been unable to hear mass in years have been located by the three chapel cars now in operation. The other two are known as the "St. Anthony" and "St. Peter." All are under the supervision of the Extension Society.

Almost limitless territory still awaits the visit of chapel car missionaries.

DELLA BLACK WRITES TO CORA

Chapter 46

The girls talked long and enthusiastically that night. Cora would take her old typewriter down in the morning, and so be ready for work.

"I'll bet you make the first month's rent in the nine days you have the office free," Nellie said.

"I probably won't do that, but I may make enough to help," Cora replied. William had come up to spend the evening, and after he had been told of all Mr. Fallon's kindnesses—which he considered only Cora's due—they talked of ways and means of getting her work to do.

The entrance of Della Black, looking pale and wan, interrupted them for a time. But she didn't stay long. They decided upon getting out some cards to be left in different offices in the building, and in one or two large office buildings near. And William offered to help in the distribution.

The girls received few letters. So when one addressed in a strange hand was found in their box, they were a bit curious. It was for Cora and as she opened it, Nellie said:

"More good luck?" but Cora's white face halted her. "What is it?"

"It's from Della Black," Cora said slowly. "I'm afraid she is desperate, poor thing." She then told Nellie what she and Gladys knew of Della's pitiful love affair. Then she read:

"Dear Cora: Try not to think too badly of me, but I can't live without him. You know who I mean. I wish I was good and strong like you, and the girls with you, but I'm not. I can't work. I can't do anything but think of him—and want him. I shan't see you again, so goodbye and thank you for being so good to me—for trying to help me.—Della."

"Poor thing, she's gone back to him!" Gladys said, breaking the silence. "How she must care knowing he has a wife and all."

"It's very sad," Cora said. "She is ruining her life—perhaps his wife's and one never knows, his also. He is very selfish to take advantage of her."

love. She told me she refused always to touch his money; that flowers, tickets for the theater, and things like that were all that she ever accepted from him—that she loved him for himself, not for what he was—

"Or wasn't?" Nellie interrupted. "It seems to me he wasn't much or he'd have married her instead of the other woman."

"She wasn't in his class," Gladys said. "And when it comes to marrying I guess men like the kind of girls they have been used to, not girls their friends won't know. I can't help being sorry for the wives of such men. They are probably doing their best to be good wives, but if one believes what the papers say, men with money are hard to hold. Poor Della!"

"I shall hunt her up in a day or two," Cora said, she had been reading the note again. "I wish we might help her—help her to see what she is doing. She isn't bad, but I fear her love will ruin her just the same."

But girls whose time is so fully occupied, have little time to think of others unless they happen to be near them. So in their work Della was quite forgotten for a day or two, although Cora determined to spend part of Sunday in an attempt to locate her. She would ask William to help her.

Saturday afternoon Nellie came in with a paper in her hand. She looked excited, and before she removed her hat said:

"Read this, Cora!" and handed her the paper, pointing to a big black headline:

"GIRL SUICIDE IN MADISON SQUARE PARK"

NO CLUE TO HER IDENTITY

Then underneath, in smaller type, was a description of how the girl was found, by whom, and also a description of her clothing:

"She was neatly but plainly dressed in a dark blue silk, a blue hat, black pumps and stockings. Her underwear was of good quality and very clean. She had dark hair, large brown eyes and regular features."

The girls stared at each other as Cora finished reading. The body had been taken to the morgue to await identification.

"Isn't it dreadful!" Nellie said. "I wonder why she did it?" Cora said slowly. "I wonder if it could be Della. If that was what she meant when she said she couldn't live without him? The description would fit her—she wore a blue dress and hat the other night."

"It would be too dreadful! Nellie broke in, her face white. 'That man would be her murderer!'"

Tomorrow—Della Black a Suicide.

TO MAP ALASKA "NO MAN'S LAND" TO LOCATE LAKES

Washington, Aug. 17.—Believing that the national forests of Alaska abound with undiscovered lakes, many of which may be valuable water power sources, the Forestry Service of the Department of Agriculture is evolving plans to map this "No Man's Land" of the north by means of aerial photographs.

That there are many lakes on the headlands and islands traversed by the inside passage between Seattle and Skagway, which do not appear on the map has long been known an official of the Forestry Service said. During the New York Nome flight made by army aviators lakes frequently were sighted which could not be found on the latest and most authentic maps of the territory.

Tales of unknown water bodies are constantly being brought to the attention of the government by trappers and prospectors. Less than a year ago a lake four and a half miles long and half a mile wide was discovered at the head of Short Bay. This lake, according to the Forestry Service, has more than 1,000 acres of surface area and is less than one and a quarter miles from tidewater; yet, because of the rough topography of the surrounding country, it has remained unknown and unnamed.

Officials arranging the plans for the locating and photographing of these "lost lakes" estimate that a few days' flight will be sufficient to cover the area with a degree of accuracy that would require many years and great expense to accomplish by ordinary methods.

This venture, which will mark the latest uses to which airplanes have been put. The work has been approved by the Federal Power Commission and will be done by seaplanes flying from Ketchikan as a base.

Officials assert this project will be the first step in penetrating the unknown sections of Alaska to enable the determination of just what potential wealth is contained in these hitherto impregnable sections of a country believed to contain vast quantities of minerals, metals, water power and other sources of wealth.

Saturday afternoon Nellie came in with a paper in her hand. She looked excited, and before she removed her hat said:

"Read this, Cora!" and handed her the paper, pointing to a big black headline:

"GIRL SUICIDE IN MADISON SQUARE PARK"

NO CLUE TO HER IDENTITY
Then underneath, in smaller type, was a description of how the girl was found, by whom, and also a description of her clothing:

"She was neatly but plainly dressed in a dark blue silk, a blue hat, black pumps and stockings. Her underwear was of good quality and very clean. She had dark hair, large brown eyes and regular features."

The girls stared at each other as Cora finished reading. The body had been taken to the morgue to await identification.

"Isn't it dreadful!" Nellie said. "I wonder why she did it?"

"I wonder—who she was," Cora said slowly. "I wonder if it could be Della. If that was what she meant when she said she couldn't live without him? The description would fit her—she wore a blue dress and hat the other night."

"It would be too dreadful! Nellie broke in, her face white. "That man would be her murderer!"

Tomorrow—Della Black a Suicide.
